President W. S. Gifford of A. T. & T. Co in New York Talks With Sir Evelyn Murray in London

STATIC IN THE AIR
CAUSES SOME DELAY

First Commercial Calls Then

Atlantic at $25-a-Minute Rate.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—Commercial radio telephone service between New York and London was formally opened at 5:44 o'clock this morning when official greetings were exchanged between President W. S. Gifford of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. in New York, and Sir G. Evelyn Murray, Secretary of the British General Postoffice, in London.

The test had been set for 8:30 a. m., but the worst atmospheric conditions in months produced static which somewhat delayed the initial conversation.

Seated at a table in the offices of the A. T. & T. Co. in lower Broadway, Gifford lifted the receiver and asked the operator: "Can you get me Sir Evelyn Murray in London?" A few seconds later the bell tinkled and Gifford said: "Good morning."

"Good morning," came the reply 3500 miles away, although it was 1:44 o'clock in the afternoon there.

Static interrupts talk. Shortly afterward static interrupted the conversation and the two men frequently had to say, "I beg your pardon," as they strained ears to catch words.

Conditions became better after a time, however, and Gifford told Sir Evelyn that he believed the new service would link the two countries together as neighbors. He congratulated the British General Postoffice on its co-operation.

As the two men said goodbye, the operators plugged in the first call of the regular commercial service at the rate of $25 a minute.

The official conversation lasted five minutes. Thirty officers of the A. T. & T. Co. and a battalion of newspaper reporters listened in on the first talk with wave receivers.

Long and Short Waves Used. At the conclusion of the official conversation Gifford explained that the 500-meter wave length and the 22-meter short wave were used simultaneously today as they would be in the course of the regular commercial service. He said the chances were that reception was better at the London end of the line because of the fact that the short wave is most effective when atmospheric conditions are just what they are.

In a statement read to the assembled listeners just before the London call was put through Gifford dedicated "a new type of telephone trunk line, good over those wide spans of water across which we have not as yet learned to string wires."

"We cannot as yet guarantee a good talking connection with London all the time," he said. "When atmospheric conditions are very bad it is utterly impossible to carry on a conversation."

The text of the conversation between Gifford and Sir Evelyn follows: "Beg pardon, sir," Gifford said. "Do you hear clearly?"

"Yes, I hear you," Gifford said. "Gifford's Message to Britain. Gifford then delivered the following message:

"Today, as a result of very many years of research and experimentation, we open a telephone channel of speech between New York and London. Thus the people of these two great cities will be brought within speaking distance. Across 3000 miles of ocean, individuals in the two cities may, by telephone, exchange views and transact business instantly as though they were face to face. I know that it is your aim, as it is ours, to extend this service so that in the near future any one in either city may be able to talk to any one in the other.

"No one can foresee the ultimate significance of this latest achievement of science and organization. It will certainly facilitate business. It will be a social convenience and comfort; and, through the closer bond which it establishes, it will promote better understanding and strengthen the ties of friendship. Through the spoken word, aided by the personality of the voice, the people of New York and the people of London will become neighbors in a real sense, although separated by thousands of miles.

"We are glad to have co-operated with you in this notable enterprise and shall actively continue to work with you in extending and improving the service. I congratulate you upon your successful solution of your problems and wish to extend to you and to your associates the greetings and good wishes of the officers and staff of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. and of

Text of E. W. Grant's Letter Admitting Fraud in Realty Schemes

THE letter written by Edward W. Grant, the day before his sudden departure from St. Louis, and sent to his brother-in-law and business associate, Edward A. Wagner, follows:

Dec. 31, 1926.
Dear Ed: I am explaining in detail the various things that I have done, to keep our company going and having finally come to the end of the rope and not carrying enough insurance to make my having an accident in which I would be killed worth while, I am leaving this man's town because I haven't the courage to face the music I know is coming.

The fault is mine and I only hope that the world will realize that I am the only one of Messrs. Wagner-Grant-Bell who has had any hand in my damn foolishness.

Explains His Methods. In order to get money, I put a second, third and fourth deed of trust on 716 Hemann. I could sell these loans by not showing Mr. Keiser or Mr. Margolis the titles. 716 Syracuse was sold and the Citizens Loan Co. had a loan on it as well as Margolis. I released the loan that Citizens had and let Margolis' loan show on the record.

The owner of the building took up and should have paid in the money to take up the loan that showed on the title and I paid Margolis for all but the last note of $3000. Fortunately, the loan that Citizens had been paid in full.

We sold 717 Syracuse and I got you to sign affidavits stating that the deed of trust that was held by Citizens was paid in full. I told you the loan had been paid and you, of course, believed me. There is $700 still due Citizens on this original loan. 747 Syracuse I handled in much the same way. I don't remember whether I had you sign an affidavit stating that the notes were paid and lost together with the deed of trust.

We sold 6615 Enright for Abe Frank and I released the second deed of trust on the property by signing Abe's name and his wife's name to an affidavit and acknowledged this signature with my notary seal and then released it. I may have had Bill Bell release it.

I want to state that all the loans that Bill released by affidavit he did on my say so, and he has no blame attached to him for such action, because in most cases I made an affidavit and asked Bill to release it on the margin of the Recorder's book.

Keiser had a second deed on 6881 Enright, and when I made a new loan for Mrs. McInerney on this property, I traded a deed of trust we held on 739 Kingsland for the one Keiser had on Enright. We did not own the loan on Kingsland, but were holding it for collection for a their associates in the Bell Telephone system.

Sir Evelyn Makes Reply. Sir Evelyn's answer followed immediately and was clearly audible. The static had died to a faint murmur which did not interfere with reception of the event.

"We of the British Postoffice look back with pleasure upon the cordial co-operation of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., which has led to the success so far achieved, and on behalf of the Postmaster-General and the officers of the General Postoffice, I warmly reciprocate your greeting and good wishes. I now declare the service opened to the public."

At 5:45 o'clock, when the formalities were over, the service to other listeners-in was automatically discontinued. The original plans called for cutting in the chimes of St. Paul's Cathedral in London, but on account of the static interference, the first call came through at a time when the bells were silent.

A swarm of photographers and movie camera operators was on hand to record the event.

Every effort of reporters and photographers to learn the identities of the young, bobbed-haired, short-skirted girl operators met with polite but firm refusal.

The first news dispatch to be received by the Associated Press over the radiophone commercial service between London and New York came from its London bureau at 13:02 o'clock.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—Official announcement that the Prince of Wales will visit Canada and the United States next summer is expected to be made at Ottawa, Canada, soon on behalf of the Prince of Wales.

Wales desires to accept the Canadian Government's invitation to attend the jubilee celebration in July. The Prince is expected to visit New York and the Middle West.

New York called "Hello, London A. P." "Hello, New York office. This is Frank King talking. How are you?" came the voice which rose and then faded away to almost a whisper as the static storm clouded the circuit.

$4,000,000 in Business Done. Business transactions involving approximately $4,000,000 were completed over the radio telephone between London and New York within a few hours of the establishment of the transatlantic service today, it was reported by the Ja-

GOV. BAKER WAITS AS HOUSE WRANGLES

Message Delayed While Question of Giving Jobs to Relatives Is Squabbled Over.

By a Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 7.—Legislative business was dropped in the House this morning, and Gov. Baker, in readiness to deliver his message to a joint session of the House and Senate, was left waiting in his office while House members squabbled over the distribution of clerkship patronage and defeated a resolution designed to prevent House members from appointing their relatives to clerical jobs.

A resolution by D. L. Bales, Democratic minority floor leader, seeking to limit the total number of House employees to 122, was caught in a parliamentary tangle and ruled out of order. The House usually starts with about 150 clerks and increases the number to 250 to 300 by the end of the session. A similar practice is followed by the Senate.

The patronage distribution, subject of Republican majority causes all day yesterday, threatened to continue indefinitely, until State Senators indicated to House members that they would go home and leave the joint session flat.

The discussion then was ended, a joint session declared, and a committee sent on its belated errand to bring in the Governor for his official message.

The Republican majority in the House put through resolutions providing for the appointment of a personal clerk for each of the 73 Republicans; 12 stenographers for the majority and two for the minority; 15 doorkeepers for the 10 doors of the House; several clerks and 11 other employees in miscellaneous capacities. These appointments totaled 128, and others will be made later. The employees receive from $250 to $5 a day.

After the resolution providing for the appointment of the personal clerk for each of the 73 Republicans, and none for the minority, had been adopted, Democratic Floor Leader Bales offered an amendment to limit the number of employees to 122. After some discussion it was ruled out of order.

Representative Tom Roney (Dem.) of Jasper County then offered a resolution to require all appointments to conform to the anti-patronage amendment to the State Constitution, which forbids any State official or department head, including legislators, from appointing relatives by blood or marriage, to the State payroll.

After the resolution designated the Jefferson City Tribune as the official organ of the House for publication of the Daily Journal.

time to take the money to the Tigers, who were playing in Philadelphia. Rowland (Clarence) Rowland, then manager, said: "Go ahead, take the money."

Not all the money he collected, Gandil said, was in cash. Some made pledges. "I remember getting promises or cash from Felsch, Williams, Schalk, Leibolt, Joe Collins, Eddie Collins, Ed Cioffe, Faber, Jackson, Joe Benz, Eddie Murphy, Rob Russell and a few others whose names I do not remember. I did not get any from Rowland or Kid."

Describing the handling over of the pool to Bill James, Gandil deposited: "We (Risberg and Gandil) went to a room in the Aldine Hotel, Philadelphia, where we found Bill James, Daus, Oscar Stange and Cunningham, playing poker. I called James outside and said: 'Bill, here's the money I promised you or words to that effect. About the only thing I remember Bill saying was: 'That's good. Howard's been anxious for his dough.'"

Disputes Collins' Check. The affidavit contradicts testimony given by Eddie Collins before Commissioner Landis when he was indicted for the 1919-20 season. Collins produced a check stub to show he had not paid Gandil $45 until Oct. 14, 1917—long after the date Gandil fixes as "pay-off" day. "I read in the papers," Gandil said, "that Eddie Collins showed a checkbook and said he didn't pay me $45 until Oct. 14. I can't explain this, because my recollection is that I and Swede Risberg approached Collins on the same day. He put me off for about an hour and then I saw him go to the hotel desk, where he got $45. He paid me in cash. I have no recollection of getting any money from him."

At the time the series began Collins was two and the one-half games in the lead, with Boston pressing them. The winning of four games would make Chicago's pennant chances almost sure, whereas the loss of even half those games would cut the margin of the Sox over Boston to almost nothing.

Says He Suggested Money. "Our club left Chicago after those games. It was upon our return that I first heard mention of what we ought to do for the Detroit players. Someone suggested giving them—the pitchers, I mean—a suit of clothes. I said: 'Let's make it two and the season ended. We would give the Detroit pitchers about $200 apiece. That meant that every one of us would kick in with $45.'"

The money was collected on Sept. 28. "I suggested it would be a good posted visits to Grant's home, 6211 McPherson avenue, Parkway, and to the Wagner-Grant-Bell office, interviewing members and friends of the family, said no information was given, in answer to any of his inquiries, to indicate that the family had heard in any way from the missing man.

Wagner's Part Questioned. Chief Clerk said he would take up with the Circuit Attorney the question of Wagner's culpability in withholding from the police the information contained in the letter, with its definite admissions of criminal acts.

Circuit Attorney Sidener said, at Jefferson City today, that he would investigate the matter of responsibility for the withholding of the information as to Grant's misdeeds. Two detectives have been assigned to the Circuit Attorney's office, to look up the now cold trail of the fugitive.

Wagner and Bell, when asked today as to the reason for withholding the Grant letter, referred inquiries to their lawyers.

Wagner, who is now in St. Louis, is said to have declined for two days past to say whether he knew of any message from Grant, and at the same time has declared, as Grant's letter does, that Wagner and Bell were interested in real estate investments. He did not recall whether Grant mentioned deeds of trust. Moulton said he would not be interested, and the visit ended with nothing but a cold trail of the fugitive.

Broker Tells of Grant's Deals. George L. Stapleton, manager of the St. Louis branch of James F. Bennett & Co., stock brokers, said today that Grant had had dealings with his company in the stock market, in recent months and had suffered losses in the market. Stapleton was unable to give the amount of these losses, but indicated they would not run into many thousands of dollars.

Bernard Greenfelder, attorney for the West St. Louis Trust Co., said today the bank would realize fully on the loan referred to by Grant in his letter. "It is true," he said, "that the bank holds a note of the Wagner-Grant-Bell Co. for $40,000, secured by two first deeds of trust which were released by fraudulent affidavits, but these deeds are still liens against the property and the bank expects to realize on them."

Greenfelder cited a Supreme Court decision of 1919 which sustained the action of Circuit Judge McElhinney in voiding similar affidavits and reinstating deeds of trust in a similar case.

City Trust Co. Has Had No Dealings With Grant's Firm. The Post-Dispatch last Wednesday was in error in stating that Bernard Greenfelder represented two banks at the meeting of creditors of the Wagner-Grant-Bell firm. He represented the West St. Louis Trust Co. He did not represent the City Trust Co., of which he is counsel, and officers of this bank said they have no dealings with the Wagner-Grant-Bell firm and never have had any of its paper.

Apparently Admits Forgery. In telling of the sale of property at 6211 Enright avenue for Abe Frank, Grant makes an apparent admission of forgery. "I released the second deed of trust on the property by signing Abe's name and his wife's name to an affidavit," Grant wrote, and acknowledged this signature with my notary's seal and then released it myself, or I may have had Bill (Bell) release it."

"DeMun park is a sad story," Grant wrote in reference to the residence an apartment tract where Wagner-Grant-Bell conducted its most extensive and speculative real estate business. He said he had signed affidavits for the release of deeds of trust on several pieces of DeMun tract property.

Grant's dealings with Prof. Edward E. Keiser of Clayton, retired instructor in chemistry in Washington University, who has lost his savings, were mentioned in connection with those with Margolis. A fraudulent release causing a loss of $700 to the Citizens Loan Co., was mentioned, and Grant wrote also that "two of the West St. Louis Trust Co. $40,000, and their loans are worthless."

PRESIDENTIAL BOON FOR SMITH LAUNDRY

Governor Not at New Year Dinner at Which Senator Wagner Presented His Message.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—Gov. Alfred E. Smith's boom for the presidency was launched last night when Senator-elect Robert F. Wagner and Mayor James J. Walker dined at the National Democratic Club. Gov. Smith was not one of the 1500 persons present. He explained later that by the orders he had refused all invitations.

Wagner said the great boom for the next presidential campaign would be reconstruction of the rights and halting of the growth of the barriers between States.

"There is one man in the country today who stands out as a defender of democracy in the manner in which old Thomas Jefferson and the great prescient of the past," he said. "We are in the service of this great, unselfish leader in the person of Alfred E. Smith."

This is the first time that a favorite son over to the campaign head the national Governor, said Mayor Walker, who told Wagner a characteristic position as an unpopular law.

The filing of Detective-Sergeant Edward J. Lally's will in Probate Court yesterday revealed how by 25 years of thrift and judicious investment the quiet, unostentatious man had built up an estate of $60,000 on an original $500 capital.

$25 to $39.50

COLOR! That's the important thing in these vivacious Frocks of flat crepe and Georgette. Clear, lovely tones—two and three shades in one frock. The bolero persists as an important style; sleeves are points of interest; every neckline has its flower; embroidery and drawnwork are exquisite trimmings; and pleats, pleats, everywhere, in every conceivable form. This fascinating collection of new styles makes Saturday an important day to choose the first Spring frock.

Frocks for Women and Misses—Reduced 1/3

The Misses' Store has a large collection of afternoon Frocks of satin, crepe, Georgette and velvet in approved Winter modes—and many dancing Frocks of light fabrics. For madame, the Costume Salon has evening Gowns of formal and informal character in velvet, chiffon, and sequins.

SALOON MAN SLAIN BROTHER SHOOTS CAPTURED ROBBER

Bart Vallosio, 42, Killed in Fight When He Resists Holdup in His Bar at 2001 Morgan Street.

JOSEPH SZWABO, 23, CAUGHT IN THE CHASE

Victim's Kinsman Fires on the Prisoner While Held by Detectives, Wounding Him Twice.

Bart Vallosio, 42 years old, was shot and killed by a holdup man in his saloon at 2001 Morgan street last night. Detectives captured the slayer, Joseph Szwabo, 23, and as they held him, he was shot and seriously wounded by Vincent Vallosio, 39, brother of the slain man. Szwabo is at city hospital with bullet wounds in the abdomen and right arm.

Vincent Vallosio is out on bond, charged with assault to kill.

There were six men in the saloon when Szwabo entered at 7:45 o'clock with a revolver in either hand and a handkerchief across the lower part of his face. The Vallosio brothers and their bartender, Edward Brown, and three customers, Charles Bristol, Moses A. Baker and Charles Cautsey, were at the bar.

"Hands up!" the robber commanded; but Bart Vallosio took the man and tried to disarm him. The two scuffled, three shots were fired, and Vallosio, shot through the heart, fell dead. The robber backed out through a side door, still firing, and ran west in Morgan street.

Officers Capture Fugitive.

City Detectives John Rooney and William Emerick, who were walking with a woman prisoner on Twentieth street, half a block north of the saloon, heard the shots and chased the fugitive. The latter threw aside his two revolvers, from which 12 shots had been fired, as he ran. He finally was captured at Twenty-first and Morgan. "Don't shoot—I'll go back," he pleaded.

Meantime Vincent Vallosio had gone upstairs to his living quarters over the saloon, and obtained three pistols. He kept one for himself and gave Bristol and Baker each one. Leaving the saloon to seek the slayer, the three encountered the detectives returning with Szwabo, holding him by the arms.

"You killed my brother, you loso excitedly, and before the detectives could interfere, he shot Szwabo twice. The detectives then disarmed him. Vallosio said he mistook the detectives for accomplices of Szwabo and feared they were coming to kill him.

Bart Vallosio was married and lived at 1409 North Twenty-first street. He and his bachelor brother had conducted the saloon as partners for three years, without a holdup. They kept a revolver behind the bar for emergency use, but were covered by the robber before they could reach it.

Szwabo Arrested 18 Times.

Szwabo has been arrested 18 times on various charges. He said he was a chauffeur and lived at 1421 Sarsfield place. At the age of 8 he was arrested for petty larceny. Thereafter he was often in Juvenile Court. In 1920 he was sentenced to the workhouse for one year for burglary.

The woman prisoner, who was in custody of Detectives Rooney and Emerick, until they left her to capture Szwabo, got away. She was charged with beating a hotel bill.

At city hospital today Szwabo denied he was the robber in the saloon holdup. He denied he shot Bart Vallosio. He denied being in the saloon. He said he was walking a block away, firing with a woman, when the detectives arrested him.

CRIMINAL CHARGE AGAINST MAYOR'S BROTHER DISMISSED

Criminal charges against Julius C. Miller Jr., brother of Mayor Miller, and former head of the Signal Point Coal & Coke Co., Edgemont and Paul Whitescarver, a St. Louis coal dealer, growing out of a claim by St. Clair County for coal mined from county land, were dismissed today upon payment of $1000 to settle the claim.

Indictments charging larceny of County Detention Home, Edgemont, and unlawful driving of a mine, were returned at Belleville, Jan. 26 last. The settlement offer and dismissal of charges were approved by the County Board of Supervisors last August and payment was made today through Pius P. Ernest, an East St. Louis coal dealer. The county had received a report that 4000 tons of coal, worth $8000 to $10,000, had been taken from the acre.

Seeks $25,000 for False Arrest.
By the Associated Press.
SHREVEPORT, Mo., Jan. 7.—S. W. Downing, an attorney, has filed a suit for $25,000 damages against the City of Shreveport, La., claiming that the city had arrested him without cause and held him in jail for violation of an ordinance that did not exist. Downing says he was arrested for alleged violation of an ordinance forbidding uncovered cisterns. He was fined $50. The attorney claims that the ordinance does not specify what a cistern is.

BAKER HAS NEW SCHEME TO GET RID OF STEPHENS

Governor Searching for a Prominent Democrat Willing to Take Place on Highway Commission.

MOVE PURELY POLITICAL TRICK

Failure to Confirm Would Place Senate Majority in Position of Usurping Executive's Power.

By CURTIS A. BETTS, A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 7.—The Democratic majority in the State Senate apparently is to be called upon to meet a political trick in its effort to prevent Gov. Baker from putting the partisan spoils system into effect in the State Highway Department.

At first the Senators thought they were faced with only rough-and-tumble politics, which they were prepared to meet with tactics of the same kind, but on information which filtered to them today, the Governor has a slick scheme ready. The Senators had been informed that it was the Governor's intention to withhold from the Senate the name of Hugh Stephens' Democrat, of Jefferson City, who was responsible for blocking the executive plan a month ago to put political pets into responsible technical positions in the department, and then, toward the last of the session, to substitute the name of another for Stephens' place on the Highway Commission.

Searching for Substitute. Now they are informed that he is searching for some Democrat of high public standing who will permit himself to be used to oust Stephens, believing he can get one the Senate can find no excuse for rejecting. There are reports that the Governor already has picked his man, but if he has his name has not become noised about the Capitol.

By these tactics the Governor would have the Democratic majority in the Senate in an embarrassing position. The law gives the Governor the right to make the appointments subject to confirmation by the Senate.

Friends of the Governor point out that to reject an appointee against whose fitness or character no charge could be brought the Senate in effect would be usurping the Governor's power, and that it hardly would do that.

View of Some Senators. On the other hand, some of the Senators interested in preventing political raids on the department hold that the Governor's scheme is so obvious that Democrats should join in helping him carry it out. They argue it should be rejected on the ground, if on no other, that in promoting a political scheme of the administration to punish a member of the commission for carrying out the intent of the highway law the new commission really would become a Republican. The law provides that not more than two of the four commissioners shall belong to the same political party.

But what the Senate caucus would do with such a situation is problematical. If the Governor should submit the name of a Democrat whose standing was high the Senate might have difficulty in finding an excuse for rejecting him.

The situation is one which is becoming embarrassing to Republicans and Democrats alike. It is known that some of the influential Republican friends of the Governor have been urging him to retain Stephens in the commission, fearing that the effect on the public of his rejection would be disastrous and that it would be a serious blunder from the standpoint of the party.

Sentiment for Stephens. One Democratic Senator, who refused to permit the use of his name at this stage of the controversy, expressed himself today as convinced the Senate should "stand pat" for Stephens. "The issue is quite clearly drawn," he said. "The Governor wants to get rid of Stephens, and I, also, am in favor of C. D. Matthews, a Republican, because they could not obey his orders to appoint H. H. Lotter, chief engineer, and former Supreme Judge Otto for general counsel of the Highway Commission. Both were his personal and political friends. "In seeking their appointments the Governor was going outside the department and going over the heads of men fully qualified for the positions. He was attempting to make the Highway Department a political dumping ground to take care of his friends. The only effect of such a plan if it had succeeded would have been to completely destroy public confidence in the Highway Department and irreparable injury would have been done to the Missouri road program. Supported by Matthews. "Hugh Stephens took the lead in blocking the Governor, and I am informed, was supported by C. D. Matthews and by J. R. Davis, another member. Davis has been confirmed by the Senate and cannot be reached by the Governor. "It seems to me that the Senate would be derelict in its duty if it did not exhaust every means within its power to prevent the punishment of Stephens and Matthews for their action in preserving the integrity of the Highway Department. "The administration of former Gov. Hyde was one which brought much frothing to the mouths of Democrats, but this we can say for it, Hyde kept the Highway Department free from partisan politics. Under his administration it was conducted along business lines and in no important instance was any preference shown because of politics. We certainly should not permit the wrecking of the department now on the rocks of politics. "The Legislature today notified the Governor it was organized and ready to receive communications from him. It has been the custom of most Governors to immediately send the list of vacation appointments to the Legislature when notified of its organization, but reports have been that the appointments will not be forwarded for several days and perhaps not for several weeks.

ANGRY, SPREADING RASH ON BABY'S BODY

Checked and healed by soothing ointment

Los Angeles, Cal., July 28.—"When my baby was four months old, little red pimples which resembled heat or teething rash appeared on her body. I used various baby powders, but the trouble kept spreading until nearly all the lower part of her body was covered. Then it began to look white and scaly and I knew it was more than an ordinary rash. I decided to try Resinol Ointment, and after the first two or three applications I noticed an improvement. I kept on using this ointment, however, and bought some Resinol Soap to bathe her with. The result was that the trouble completely disappeared. I have always used Resinol Soap for her bath since. She is two years old now, and her skin is absolutely free from any blemish. When my boy began to have ringworms, I was so persistent in the use of Resinol Ointment that they were soon cleared away. I wouldn't be without Resinol in the house, and at the least sign of any eruption on the children, I use it." (Signed) Mrs. L. E. Crenshaw, 7806 Lou Dillon Ave.

DRYS TELL PARTIES NOT TO FOOL WITH LAW ENFORCEMENT

Committee of 1000 Prepares for National Campaign in Interest of State Observance.

TEXAS SENATOR ASSAILS DRINKERS

Declares Purchasers of Liquor Are More Guilty Than Criminals With Whom They Deal.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—With warning to all political parties that their death knell will be sounded "if they fool with this question of law enforcement," members of the Citizens' Committee of One Thousand set out today to launch a vigorous educational campaign in the interest of law observance and enforcement throughout the land. As their watchword the committee members had a message from President Coolidge declaring that if public law fails to be enforced "Government itself fails and if it fails to be observed, the very foundation on which self-government rests is weakened and destroyed."

The message was read before the committee's annual banquet here last night at which Senator Borah (Rep.) of Idaho, and Sheppard (Rep.) of Texas, and Richard Robins of Chicago, spoke. The committee adopted a resolution endorsing President Coolidge's stand on law enforcement as outlined in his message to Congress and calling upon the people to "elect and support such officials in order to insure our nation's well-being."

Coolidge's Letter. Failure of law enforcement means the failure of government, President Coolidge said in his letter. He explained that it was possible for him to address "gathering" an account of the progress of official business. "I want you to know," Mr. Coolidge said, "that I regard the observance and enforcement of law as exceedingly important to public welfare of the nation. It is a subject I have often discussed and desire constantly to emphasize. It is scarcely too much to say that all our rights, our liberty, our life itself are dependent for their protection on public law. It falls to be enforced, government itself fails. If it fails to be observed, the very foundation on which government rests is weakened and destroyed. Anything that your organization can do to impress principle on the public mind with a distinct patriotic service."

"No country has ever reached the state of perfect law observance or enforcement. Every first-generation makes an honest intelligent effort to enforce the law and the standards of citizenship very much lowered when they are any general failure to observe law. I welcome the assistance of all organizations established for the purpose of supporting these principles."

Borah's Advice to Wets. Senator Borah advised those who believe in "nullification" of the eighteenth amendment to forth their platform and their candidate, while Senator Sheppard declared that prohibition is a fact "that no real party may disregard without seriously impairing its influence on the nation. Senator Borah put aside the question of the "wisdom" prohibition, declaring that it had been settled under the American theory of Government prohibition was written into the constitution. "So long as this remains a part of our law," said the Idaho Senator, "there are only two things to do, enforce it or repeal it. Those who urge its repeal are acting in their undisciplined rights. "But there is a different program proposed, and to that I direct attention. It is proposed by illicit leaders and educators build up public opinion so as to make the constitution a dead letter; not repeal it, but disregard it; not propose to let it stand notwithstanding it remains a part of the Constitution, to nullify it under foot."

Sheppard Assails Drinkers. Purchasers of liquor are described by Senator Sheppard as "guiltier" than the professional criminals whom they indirectly or directly deal. "When they break one law they invite the violation of all laws," said Senator Sheppard. "When they make the existence of the bootlegger possible today, they cannot consistently invoke the protection of society when the bootlegger is the rapist or the murderer in their homes tomorrow. "Lawbreakers in high places more to undermine the foundation of order and progress to encourage communism, bolshevism, anarchy and Red activities in general, than all the denizens of underworld. Their example is a cause of dissipation and lawlessness among younger people. The exuberance of youth."

TEXAS SENATOR
ASSAILS DRINKERS

Declares Purchasers of Liq-
our Are More Guilty "Than Criminals With Whom They Deal."

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—With a warning to all political parties that their death knell will be sounded "if they fool with this question of law enforcement," members of the Citizens' Committee of One Thousand set out today to launch a vigorous educational campaign in the interest of law observance and enforcement throughout the land.

As their watchword, the committee members had a message from President Coolidge declaring that if public law fails to be enforced, "Government itself fails," and if it fails to be observed, "the very foundation on which self-government rests is weakened and destroyed."

The message was read before the committee's annual banquet here last night at which Senators Borah (Rep.) of Idaho, and Sheppard (Dem.) of Texas, and Raymond Robins of Chicago, spoke.

The committee adopted a resolution endorsing President Coolidge's stand on law enforcement as outlined in his message to Congress and calling upon the people to "elect and support such officials" in order to "insure our national well-being."

Coolidge's Letter.

Failure of law enforcement means the failure of government, President Coolidge said in his letter. He explained that it was impossible for him to address the gathering on account of the press of official business.

"I want you to know," Mr. Coolidge said, "that I regard the observance and enforcement of the law as exceedingly important to the public welfare of the nation. This is a subject I have often discussed and desire constantly to emphasize."

"It is scarcely too much to say that all our rights, our liberty and life itself are dependent for their protection on public law. If it fails to be enforced, government itself fails. If it fails to be observed, the very foundation on which self-government rests is weakened and destroyed. Anything that your organization can do to impress this principle on the public mind will be a distinct patriotic service."

"No country has ever reached the state of perfect law observance or enforcement. Every first-class government makes an honest and intelligent effort to enforce the law and the standards of citizenship are very much lowered when there is any general failure to observe the law. I welcome the assistance of all organizations established for the purpose of supporting these principles."

Borah's Advice to Wets.

Senator Borah advised those who believe in "nullification" of the eighteenth amendment to "put forth their platform and name their candidate, while Senator Sheppard declared that prohibition is a fixture, a fact "that no political party may disregard without seriously impairing its influence in the nation."

Senator Borah put aside entirely the question of the "wisdom" of prohibition, declaring that point had been settled under the American theory of Government when prohibition was written into the constitution.

"So long as this remains a Government of law," said the Idaho Senator, "there are only two things to do, enforce it or repeal it. Those who urge its repeal are acting within their undisputed rights."

"But there is a different program proposed, and to that I direct attention. It is proposed by political leaders and educators to build up public opinion so as to make the constitution a dead letter; not repeal it, but disregard it. It is proposed to let it stand and notwithstanding it remains a part of the Constitution, to nullify it, trample it under foot."

Sheppard Assails Drinkers.

Purchasers and drinkers of illicit liquor were described by the Senator Sheppard as "guiltier than the professional criminals with whom they indirectly or directly deal."

"When they break one law they invite the violation of all other laws," said Senator Sheppard. "When they make the existence of the bootlegger possible today they cannot consistently invoke the protection of society when the burglar, the rapist or the murderer invade their homes tomorrow."

"Lawbreakers in high places do more to undermine the foundations of order and progress, to encourage communism, bolshevism, anarchy, crime and Red activities in general, than all the denizens of the underworld. Their example is the chief cause of dissipation and lawlessness among younger people. The exuberances of youth, how-over, are soon exhausted. It is the older 'flapper' among the women, and the older 'flop' among the men, who constitute the 'incorrigible and noisy minority who are the main source of whatever trouble there is'."

Against Light Wine and Beer.

The Texas Senator predicted that, should the wets at any time obtain majorities in Senate and House, "they would not hesitate to destroy the eighteenth amendment by the changes they would make under the guise of amendments to the act enforcing it."

This was shown, he said, by constant efforts to amend the Volstead act to provide for wine and beer.

"As a matter of fact," he continued, "light wine and beer were the chief offenders of human decency and human welfare in the days before prohibition. Men and women, boys and girls, who went to hell by the alcoholic route started nearly always on light wine and beer."

P. H. Callahan of Louisville was toastmaster at the banquet, and Secretary Wilbur, Gen. Andrews and President William Green of the American Federation of Labor were guests of honor.

162 MEN SEEK TO JOIN NAVY
41 Are Accepted With Resumption of Recruiting.

Since the reopening of navy recruiting Monday, after it had been suspended for four months, 162 men applied for enlistment at the St. Louis Navy Recruiting Station. Forty-one passed the examination up to yesterday and were sent to the Great Lakes Naval Training Station.

Commander A. G. Dibrell, in charge of the recruiting here, ascribes the rush of recruits to the prospect for a Southern cruise when the Pacific fleet goes from California to the Virgin Islands to join the Atlantic fleet for winter maneuvers.

SOVIET CONVICTS MUTINY IN HOPE OF BEING KILLED

Prefer Death to Wretchedness of Life in Timber Gangs of Arctic Prison of Solovetzky.

ALWAYS ILL-CLAD AND UNDERFED

Julius C. Chevalier, an American, Who Was a Prisoner There, Details His Experiences.

By Radio to the Post-Dispatch and the Chicago Daily News, Copyright 1927. BERLIN, Jan. 7.—The mutiny which Moscow reports has broken out among the prisoners at ice-bound Solovetzky Island, the most dreaded of Russian prisons, is an annual event following the opening of the timbering season, according to Julius C. Chevalier, the only American ever imprisoned there, now in Berlin on his way to Constantinople where he hopes to rejoin his children. His wife died there when he was a prisoner in Russia.

When the cutting season starts, those prisoners whose hopes are already dead, revolt and invite sudden death, rather than face the Arctic rigors of those forests, where they believe slow death from starvation and exhaustion awaits them. Others plot stolidly into the snow-mantled unknown, hoping to survive and bring freedom another year closer.

"Timber cutting is the hardest labor forced on the prisoners," Chevalier said. "Only those poorest equipped in mechanical skill and brains are assigned to the work, except in special cases for punishment when the prisoner does not quite deserve shooting or confinement on Tchkerie Mountain."

"Prisoners working in the timber gangs are the poorest clothed and receive the least rations. Most of them are criminals."

Life in a Timber Gang.
"While other labor gangs work eight hours in winter and 10 hours in summer, with one holiday a month, the lumberjacks have a definite daily stint. Each gang of five men must fell, saw and stack a cubic sazgen of wood daily. Apparently this is not much for normal, healthy, well-fed men, but a sazgen is a solid pile of wood more than seven by seven feet in dimensions. In addition to this the trees selected for cutting are marked. But should a tree after it is felled and trimmed prove rotten, the gang, not the bosses, bears the responsibility.

"Each gang must finish its daily stint regardless of the weather, working through far into the night if necessary. Once behind a gang seldom catches up. If it is still behind on the second day it is allowed warm food only every third day and it put to work pulling sleds. Wherever the convicts lag at this work the guards beat them with the butts of guns provided no red soldiers are in sight. Once a man drops he often is unable to rise again, despite the beating which continues until death ends his agony.

"Unless a prisoner incurs the enmity of his fellow workers, he is usually helped by the others if he is unable to do his share. Once a man succumbs he is left in the snow until summer comes.

Many Court Death.
"The lumberjacks live in board shanties. Frequently men die from camps, knowing that shooting is their probable punishment, wade through the snow, reach the prison and seek a few hours of warmth before death.

"This year's program at Solovetzky contemplated increasing the number of prisoners from 8000 to 12,000 and extending the lumbering operations. Moscow's spring crusade against speculation in the markets and buying and selling foreign currency brought a couple of thousand new guests. When I left the island, the embarkation stockade was swarmed with these former financiers, who on account of their lack of a useful trade, were fairly sure of being assigned to timbering. Solovetzky is easily able to care for more than 12,000, especially since many prisoners live in camps on outlying portions of the island, or on smaller islands, some as far as 75 miles from the main island.

Frozen on Way to Hospital.
"During the typhus epidemic last winter the inmates of the outlying stations had an especially hard time. Men who were too sick to recover in small branch hospitals, were usually loaded on sleds and hauled to the main hospital. It was not unusual to find a patient frozen to death when he arrived. The epidemic forced the closing of the theater and as substitute snow was cleared from Holy Lake, electric lights were strung about and the prisoners were permitted to skate. A ticket to the skating rink cost 10 kopeks. Most of the purchasers, however, did not skate, but the ticket gave them permission to leave the barracks and gossip with the women prisoners loafing around the rink. "Once a man enters Solovetzky

he is stripped of his artificial individuality and gradually acquires a new personality amid his 'new environment. Some sink until they are little better than dull, plodding oxen. Others rise to positions of prominence as they had risen in the outer world. One prisoner named Frankel, through his suggestions for economies in management and other improvements—and, according to other prisoners, by lending at various times 150,000 roubles to the prison budget—eventually was entrusted with the position of purchasing agent for a group of prisons, though still a prisoner himself."

Chevalier, a native of Texas, enlisted in the British army in 1915, serving in the Near East. In 1919 he was employed by the Standard Oil Co., married a Russian woman and lived in Batum. He was arrested either for writing letters

Well save 82 cents if you get these things at Piggly Wiggly on your way home tonight

Dear Madam: It's surprising how much just a little forethought in buying household supplies will save you. Do this tomorrow morning. Make up a list of your grocery needs and hand it to your husband with instructions to stop at a Piggly Wiggly store on his way home. He'll find one of these convenient stores without going a step out of his way and it will only take him a few minutes to select your order from the systematically arranged shelves. And even the most impatient and recalcitrant men like to shop at Piggly Wiggly because there are no slow-moving clerks to irritate them. No long waits for change. No annoyance of any kind—and the saving on every item is a clear-cut, tangible sum.

F. L. STANTON, NOTED GEORGIA POET, DIES

Wrote "Mighty Lak a Rose" and "Just A Wearyin' for You."

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 7.—Frank L. Stanton, 70 years old, poet laureate of Georgia, and a member of the staff of the Atlanta Constitution for 40 years, died at his home here today. Among Stanton's best known poems are "Mighty Lak a Rose," "Lil Feller" and "Just A Wearyin' for You."

The note of cheer that graced his "Just from Georgia" column in the Constitution for 40 years, was evident in his last work. On Christmas day the column appeared for the last time. On the next day he was indisposed and several days later was gravely ill. Among the verses and paragraphs in the last column was a "New Year Text."

Tain't no use to sit and sigh. For the things you let slip by: Whilst the light is in the sky. Ketch the next one on the fly. Sighin' when the ship is tossed. Don't bring back the haven lost! Best to keep your self-command. Hope for land, hope for land!

Georgia's Poet-Laureate Was

Frank L. Stanton was a newspaper man with the soul of a poet. The poet-laureate of Georgia became a master of the art at an early age, by reading the world's best verse. As a result he became one of the South's sweetest singers and best loved writers of heart songs of any age.

A number of collections of his poems have been published in book form, the first appearing in 1892 under the title "Songs of the Soil." In 1899 another collection, "Come One With a Song," appeared, and in 1900 he published "Songs From Dixie." "Up From Georgia" appeared in 1902 and his last published volume, "Little Folks Down South," came from the press in 1904.

At least two of his poems, "Mighty Lak a Rose" and "Just A Wearyin' for You," were set to music and have attracted world-wide attention. His total remuneration for the two was only $300. In 1925, Gov. Walker issued an executive proclamation making Stanton poet-laureate of Georgia. Stanton was born in Charleston, S. C., Feb. 22, 1857.

Started as Copy Boy. He lived in Charleston until he was 12 years old, when he went to Savannah, Ga., and entered newspaper work as a copy boy on the Savannah Morning News.

The Civil War and the subsequent period of reconstruction prevented him from obtaining the school and college training he desired, so an apprenticeship over a type case in a printing office provided his education.

His first poem, "To Lizzie" was written to his sweetheart when he was 11 years old. Soon after joining the Savannah Morning News staff he began contributing verse to the paper and it was of such quality that it attracted the attention of Joel Chandler Harris, famous author of "Uncle Remus" stories, who then was an editorial writer on the News.

In 1887 Stanton began publication of the Smithville News, Smithville, Ga., where he attracted attention with his verse. It was here that he married Miss Lizzie Jossey. After a year at Smithville, Stanton accepted an offer from John Temple Graves, publisher of the Rome (Ga.) Tribune, to succeed Henry W. Grady.

In the meantime Mr. Harris had joined the staff of the Atlanta Constitution and prevailed upon Mr. Stanton to join him on that paper in 1889. He began by news and feature writing and contributing occasional verse. The latter shortly became a regular feature, "Just From Georgia," which continued for the balance of his life.

The character of his works and the tremendous volume of simple songs made it difficult for critics to select any one as his best, but among them was "This World," a single stanza of four lines: "This world that we're a-livin' in 'Is mighty hard to beat; 'You git a thorn in every rose— 'But ain't the rose sweet?"

Sang Grief in Poem. Others of his famous poems are, "Lil Feller," "Sweet Little Woman of Mine," "Let Miss Lindy Pass," "Keep On Hopin'" and "Marcelle." It was in the latter his friends believe he reached his greatest height of heart-appeal. Mr. Stanton's daughter, Marcelle, was dangerously ill and believed to be dying. The poet, overwhelmed with grief, sang out the agony of his soul in a poem.

"Mighty Lak a Rose" inspired Ethelbert Nevin, one of America's foremost composers, to compose a musical setting for it. Carrie Jacobs Bond, another of America's immortals, wrote the music to "Just A Wearyin' for You." The first Mr. Stanton knew of "Mighty Lak a Rose" which he had copyrighted, being set to music was when he heard a friend humming it to himself. After investigation he sold the words for $150.

Injured Fireman Gets $30,000.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—Sue by Thomas Murtagh, a city fireman, for $100,000 damages against Miss Alice De Lamar, heiress to a $25,000,000 estate, for injuries suffered in fire fighting on her property, has been settled for $30,000. Murtagh, former battalion fire chief, answered an alarm in 1924 for a fire in a garage owned by Miss De Lamar. As he opened the door, gasoline exploded and he was seriously burned, and later was retired on pension. Murtagh asserted employees of Miss De Lamar knew of a leak in a gasoline storage tank in the garage, but did not warn him.

POLICEMAN SHOTS YOUTH STEALING TIRE

Hugh McFarridge, 20, Who Attempted to Escape, Seriously Wounded—2 Others Held.

Hugh McFarridge, 20 years old, of 4263A Laclede avenue, was shot in the back and seriously wounded at 1:15 a. m. today by Patrolman Edward Sullivan of Newstead Avenue District, who said he surprised the young man and two others as they tried to steal a spare tire at Boyle avenue and Westminster place.

The bullet severed McFarridge's spinal cord, and if he survives, physicians say, he will be paralyzed for life. The two other men arrested by Sullivan at the scene are held at Newstead Station.

Sullivan said he was walking his beat when he saw an unlighted automobile draw up behind a parked machine at the corner. Two men got out, removed the spare tire from the parked car, and were losing it into their machine when he reached them, he related.

Shoots at Fugitive. Seeing his police uniform, one man turned and ran east on Westminster place, Sullivan said. He drew his revolver, called on the fugitive to halt and fired one shot which took effect.

The wounded man was McFarridge, who said he was a truck driver. At the wheel was Hyman Laiderman, 18, a newsboy, of 2819 Dickson street, who, according to Sullivan, said he owned the machine and admitted they were stealing a spare tire for it. The third man, who said he was Clarence Pitt, 25, a yard foreman, of 3939 North Eleventh street, denied he knew the others, and insisted he was arrested when he ran up to see what was going on.

Admits Stealing Tire. Sullivan is a former city detective, who, on New Year's eve four years ago, fired a shot in Hotel Chase dining room during a notorious raid by Federal dry agents and police. The bullet hit the floor, rebounded and wounded a guest.

At the City Hospital today McFarridge admitted he was helping his companions to steal a tire when a policeman ran up, shouting: "Hey, there! Hey there!" The shot was fired immediately, he declared, before he had a chance to run or throw up his hands.

DISCREPANCIES FOUND IN JERSEYVILLE BANK

Examination of Books Discloses Likelihood of Shortage in Books of Suicide Cashier.

Examination of the books of the National Bank of Jerseyville, Ill., which was closed Wednesday after Cashier Frank D. Heller had killed himself, has disclosed discrepancies and irregularities. It was learned from an authoritative source today.

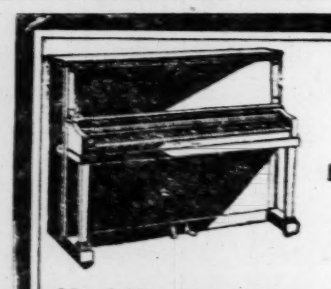

That there will be a shortage seemed apparent from the condition of the bank's records, a man in position to know, indicated, but how large the shortage is could not be estimated at this time.

The bank had been given 30 days to straighten out its affairs, a month ago, and when Federal Examiner Van S. Saylor returned Wednesday morning his purpose was to see if this had been done. That noon, after talking to Saylor, Heller went home and shot himself.

Examiners in charge of the bank were admitting customers today who wished to pay notes or present claims. The 750 depositors must await a complete audit before knowing how much of their $300,000 deposits can be paid. The bank had a capital of $50,000 and $20,000 surplus.

EX-TEACHER GETS TWO YEARS FOR MANSLAUGHTER

Prof. Cockerill, Convicted of Killing Realty Dealer, Credited With Time Spent in Jail.

BOONVILLE, Mo., Sept. 7.—Prof. Cockerill, former instructor of foreign languages at Kemper Military School, today was sentenced by Circuit Judge Westhusen to two years' imprisonment in the penitentiary for killing Emil R. Turner, local real estate dealer, Oct. 15 last.

A jury, divided between a desire to uphold Cooper County's reputation for justice and sympathy for the defendant, yesterday convicted Cockerill of manslaughter, but, after a long debate, voted to leave the punishment to Judge Westhusen.

Before passing sentence an application was presented to Judge Westhusen signed by 16 members of the jury, requesting that the defendant be sentenced and paroled from the bench, because of his poor health. When the application was presented to the Judge he said: "I can't see my way clear at this time to grant a parole."

Credit for Jail Term. The three months which the 32-year-old defendant has spent in jail were allowed on the sentence and with time off for good behavior, Cockerill would not be required to serve more than one year if he chose not to appeal. However, an appeal is planned and Judge Westhusen fixed bond at $10,000.

Prof. Cockerill, Convicted of Killing Realty Dealer, Credited With Time Spent in Jail.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. BOONVILLE, Mo., Sept. 7.—Prof. Cockerill, former instructor of foreign languages at Kemper Military School, today was sentenced by Circuit Judge Westhus to two years' imprisonment in the penitentiary for killing Emil B. Turner, local real estate dealer, Oct. 13 last.

A jury, divided between a desire to uphold Cooper County's reputation for justice and sympathy for the defendant, yesterday convicted Cockerill of manslaughter, but, after a long debate, voted to leave the punishment to Judge Westhus. Before passing sentence an application was presented to Judge Westhus signed by 10 members of the jury, requesting that the defendant be sentenced and paroled from the bench because of his poor health. When the application was presented to the judge he said: "I can't see my way clear at this time to grant a parole."

The three months which the 33-year-old defendant has spent in jail were allowed on the sentence and with time off for good behavior, Cockerill would not be required to serve more than one year if he chose not to appeal. However, an appeal is planned and Judge Westhus fixed bond at $5000 after setting Jan. 22 as the date when he will hear a motion for a new trial.

No trouble is expected in making the bond, as several persons in this community, where sympathy was expressed for the defendant throughout his trial, have indicated a willingness to sign the bond. It is probable that the signers will include several Kemper Military School instructors, formerly associated with Cockerill, who took the witness stand to testify to his excellent reputation.

When sentence was pronounced the defendant remained unmoved. He discussed the "beautiful weather" as he was led back to his cell in the county jail by Sheriff McMahon. During the trial Cockerill maintained an emotionless expression and he was never observed to say one word to his counsel during the proceedings, which began Monday.

Public sentiment against Turner has been an important factor throughout the case and results from his association with his father-in-law, Charles W. Nixon, in operation of the Nixon Farm Mortgage Co., which failed for more than $500,000 last May. Nixon fled to Mexico before his manipulations became generally known and he is now being sought to answer an indictment here.

Turner was killed while the grand jury investigation was in progress. Shooting of Turner. Cockerill, a chronic sufferer from a stomach disorder, left here in 1922 and had been in San Diego, Cal., since 1923 for his health. He left a sanitarium there to come to Boonville to investigate his investments of about $15,000 with the Nixon Farm Mortgage Co. and shot Turner down as he begged for mercy.

DRUNKEN DRIVER FINED $250

Robert F. Adams of 5628 Spalding avenue was fined $250 yesterday in police court on his plea of guilty to a charge of driving while intoxicated last Wednesday.

His automobile struck that of Howard Ryan parked in front of Ryan's home at 4257 Easton avenue.

OUSTED NEW JERSEY DRY CHIEF ACCUSED OF STEALING ALCOHOL

Federal Grand Jury to Investigate Latest Prohibition Scandal Uncovered by Administration. By the Associated Press. NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 7.—A Federal grand jury investigation appeared likely today of New Jersey's latest prohibition scandal, in which Col. Ira L. Reeves, administrator, charges a fund of $160,000 has been raised by bootleggers to oust him, and that Col. Earl McManus, former chief enforcement agent, has purloined Government alcohol.

A warrant for the arrest of McManus, a former friend and business associate of Reeves, has been issued, charging him with stealing two trucks, 29 drums of alcohol and 24 barrels of denatured alcohol, on Nov. 20.

McManus was out of town when the warrant was issued and bail was fixed at $5000. The warrant was issued on evidence obtained by Frank J. Hale, a Government investigator, who said the entire affair would be investigated by the Federal grand jury in July.

McManus was discharged by Reeves "for the good of the service" Tuesday, the day after McManus' daughter, Mrs. Lino Naylor, of New York, was arrested on charges of attempted extortion from a saloonkeeper.

On Dec. 15 McManus was promoted from chief agent to a position in the rank and file of the Newark dry office. Charges and counter-charges followed. McManus announced he would reveal "startling" facts and declared the Anti-Saloon League had interfered with the affairs of the Newark office.

Seriously Hurt When Pumping Tire

BORAH WANTS GOVERNMENT TO FINANCE PARTIES

Declares "Unparalleled Corruption" Now Prevalent Is Result of Private Contributions to Campaign Funds.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—The American political campaign system is due for a thorough cleaning, in the opinion of Senator Borah (Rep.) of Idaho.

He made known his views in an address last night before the Citizens' Committee of One Thousand for Law Observance and Enforcement, in which he uttered a sweeping denunciation of what he said was the present practice of having campaigns financed by those interested in legislation and Government policies, and called for a showdown on the question by the political parties in 1928.

Declaring the existing system inevitably "must bend the Government to the benefit of the few to the injury and disparagement of the many," the Idaho Senator said it would "infinitely be better for the people of this country to have political parties treated as quasi-governmental institutions, to the extent at least of the Government taking care of the actual legitimate cost of a campaign rather than to encounter the evils of private financing."

He said he did not regard the business interests as more to blame than the political parties and asserted that the "period of unparalleled corruption" through which the country is now passing "is the legitimate fruit of the practice of the last 30 years—the inevitable harvest of our own deliberate and persistent planting."

Although he mentioned no names, Senator Borah asserted "a gentleman in Chicago interested in certain lines of business contributes heavily to a friend's campaign who is in a public position to serve his interests."

"This," he added, "is fundamentally the basis of all the large campaign contributions. It was and is no different, bad as it is and indefensible as it is, from accepting contributions of those vitally concerned with tariff duties, the reduction of income taxes, the enforcement of trust laws and like matters, as we are constantly doing in every campaign."

Wants Test of Public Sentiment. Contemplating the future, "with its stupendous business organizations and the natural dominance of wealth," Borah said it seemed "utterly ruinous to consider that our political parties are to continue to be the recipients of the gifts and donations of great business interests."

He demanded to know what the political parties planned to present to the people on the question next year, declaring he favored the "testing of the judgment of the American people on this, the first principle of democracy."

Government for the Few. Referring to the present system of collecting campaign funds, Borah said:

"We continue to tolerate this practice because during the past 30 years we have been injured to the intelligence and a challenge to the sense of decency of the American people to tell them that such a practice does not in the end bend their Government in the direction of and to the service of selfish and special interests—bend it to the benefit of the few and to the injury and disparagement of the many."

"There is no difference, it seems to me, in morals in taking money from those interested in electing a Senator who, as they believe, will favor their interests, than taking money from the same people for the same purpose to secure the success of a party in national campaigns."

"I am not nearly so much concerned about direct and specific acts of corruption, such as the buying of a vote or the buying of an individual public officer, as I am in that method which in a thousand subtle ways affects legislation and public administration. The people are interested and more permanently affected by the defalcations of an individual."

Government and Business. Senator Borah argued that the abolition of the primary would not clean the Augean stables; that the prevalence of money in politics sprang from a more profound and more persistent source.

"It is great underlying cause," he added, "is the fact that the Government is running more and more to deal with and vitally affect all of the private concerns, business and financial, more and more to control and shape the means and methods by which vast wealth may be acquired."

"Inevitably there will be found those who seek to control the machinery which is supposed to control them. Men do not buy elections for amusement. They seek to control elections in order that they may control legislation and policies. It is one of the problems growing out of the times and conditions in which we live. The solution will go far toward answering the question still unanswered: Will democracy be able to cope with the problem of modern life? "Economy, tax reduction, tariff and kindred subjects, by no means unimportant, are nevertheless incidental to the obligation of keeping the ballot free from the dominance of money. We have learned in these days that laws do not of themselves protect property. We have learned that constitutions do not of themselves guarantee liberty or insure justice."

COMPTROLLER TO CHECK LIGHTING CONTRACT WORK

Estimate Board Authorizes Him to Employ Three Men at Total Wage of $580 a Month.

ACTION IS BASED ON COST OF FIRST UNIT

Nolte Calls Attention to the Fact That It Exceeded Original Estimate by $600,000.

Comptroller Nolte was authorized today to employ an electrical engineer and two electrical inspectors to check all work done under the $8,000,000 city-wide electric lighting program, authorized in the $87,000,000 bond issue for public improvements voted in 1923.

His action was based upon the fact that the first unit of the new lighting system cost the city 50 per cent more than originally estimated. The city contracted with A. M. Ryckoff of Chicago for 3247 standards at an estimated cost of $1,229,424. The city has paid Ryckoff $1,817,556 for 3149 standards and payment for the rest of the standards contracted for will bring the first contract cost more than $600,000 in excess of the original estimate, as told in the Post-Dispatch Dec. 22.

Explains His Purpose.

In a letter to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, comprising Mayor Miller, Comptroller Nolte and President Neun of the Board of Aldermen, Comptroller Nolte said:

"In view of the fact that payments out of the city treasury under the first contract for installation of an electric light system have exceeded the estimate of $1,229,424, under which the contract was awarded by nearly 50 per cent, it is deemed expedient to have the contract re-examined. On Jan. 1, 1927, indicating that the $8,000,000 set aside under the recent bond issue for installation of a lighting system will be insufficient to complete the project, therefore, as Comptroller, charged under the charter with the responsibility of drawing warrants on the city's funds in payment of all its obligations and in order to satisfy myself that payments made and to be made are not excessive, I desire, and am anxious to be given the help necessary to go over, check up and have certified to this department, by employees under the supervision and direction of the Comptroller the work as it progresses and has progressed under the lighting installation contracts."

Authorized to Act.

Comptroller Nolte was authorized by the board to employ immediately an electrical engineer at $250 a month and two electrical inspectors at $175 each a month. An ordinance providing for the extra employees will be sent through the Board of Aldermen.

Heretofore, the Comptroller has had no direct check on street lighting work. The work has been supervised by George B. Heath, electrical engineer, working under Director of Public Utilities John C. Pittsford.

May Look Into Work Already Done. A statement of expenditures under the first contract, prepared by the Department of Public Utilities, showed the extra $600,000 paid to Ryckoff was largely for reconstruction of sidewalks and streets, and for use of cable, in amounts greater than was estimated in advance. The unit completed represented about one-fifth of the total work to be done. Ryckoff last month obtained a $558,000 contract to install the second unit. Comptroller Nolte's engineer and inspectors will have authority to check on work performed in the past as well as future work.

"Associated Industries" Shows Its Power in Legislature

Organization's Men Elected Speaker and Speaker Pro tem of Lower House—Sponsored Workmen's Compensation and Opposes Anti-Child Labor Amendment.

The power of the Associated Industries of Missouri in State politics was emphasized at Jefferson City Wednesday when its candidates, Edward H. Winter of Warrenton, was elected Speaker of the House and its former attorney, William E. Schuchman of St. Louis, was elected Speaker Pro tem.

The Associated Industries, being a corporation, could not legally participate in the November election, but its interests were represented by a voluntary committee. The Council for Good Candidates, whose chief officers were officials of the Associated Industries. This council selected a list of candidates for both parties for the Missouri Senate and House and distributed more than 100,000 copies of a pamphlet explaining the council's aims and giving names of its candidates.

It was stated at the time that the council had not obtained any pledges from those candidates on state and was merely concerned with the election of "good men" to the Senate and House. Many of those on the slate were elected.

Activities After Election.
Following the election field agents of the Associated Industries, which has points of contact in every county in the State, called upon the Senators and Representatives and acquainted them with legislation which would be proposed at the Fifty-Fourth biennial session of the General Assembly, which convened yesterday.

The lawmakers were given a written summary of legislation to be sponsored by the Missouri Association for Economy in Public Expenditures, Missouri Association for Criminal Justice, Missouri Bar Association, Missouri Bankers' Association, Missouri State Medical Association, Missouri Bus Association, Automobile Club of Missouri, Chambers of Commerce, St. Louis and Kansas City; National Credit Union Extension Bureau; State Labor Union; State Police; State Superintendent of Schools; League of Women Voters; Board of Religious Organizations; Woman's Chamber of Commerce; Voters' Council; Missouri Women's Legislative Committee.

According to Ernest Reeves, general secretary of Associated Industries, legislators expressed thanks for the information. Some of the new ones, unfamiliar with legislative routine, said they would call on the Associated Industries for further information from time to time.

Present Legislative Program.
In the present session the Associated Industries is concentrating largely on the legislative program of the Missouri Association for Economy in Public Expenditures, which was organized as the result of a movement initiated by the Associated Industries, and whose program has been officially approved by the directors of Associated Industries.

This program has two main planks: Adoption of a civil administrative code, and provision for central purchasing for all departments and institutions. The program, if adopted, would result in the elimination of useless boards; consolidation of all related functions, excepting education and library activities, into nine major departments—agriculture, conservation and development, finance and taxation, health, highways, labor, military, trade and commerce.

Heretofore, the Comptroller has had no direct check on street lighting work. The work has been supervised by George B. Heath, electrical engineer, working under Director of Public Utilities John C. Pritchard.

MORE REVENUE, INCREASED POWER SOUGHT BY BAKER

Governor Defends Administration Against Charges of Extravagance, Recommends Nuisance Taxes.

MERELY MENTIONS
BUDGET PROPOSAL

Has No Suggestions to Offer on Continuation of Road Building or Method of Its Financing.

By CURTIS A. BEITS.
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 7.—Gov. Baker today read to the Legislature his biennial message, defending his administration from accusations of extravagance, asking the Legislature to create nuisance taxes to aggregate approximately $7,000,000 in revenue and making some 22 other legislative recommendations.

Included in the message was a suggestion, not in the form of a recommendation, that the Legislature give consideration to requiring banks to guarantee all deposits not bearing interest, as a protection to depositors who have lost many millions of dollars in the past few years because of bank failures.

Although the total $600,000 road bond issue will have been exhausted by the close of the administration, the Governor made no recommendation for legislation to continue the building of roads, neither recommending that there should be a new issue of bonds, nor that the State pay for roads from current revenues.

Seeks Extension of Powers.
The Governor asked the Legislature to vote for a 10 per cent move from office any county or State official who was negligent in his duty.

Of chief importance, probably, because of the present State-wide trend toward forcing a reduction in the cost of government, was the Governor's demand for additional revenue to be levied on a 10 per cent tax on all amusement admissions and on all cigar, cigarette and tobacco sales, to produce additional revenue.

Notably this proposed tax was asked to provide a definite revenue for the public schools and higher educational institutions, but its effect in addition to that of the General Assembly bill which has $3,500,000 more for the State revenue fund. One-half of the tax, according to the Governor's plan, would be paid to the public schools of the State to augment the appropriation of one-third of the State's revenues now going to the schools, and the other half would go to the State University, State Teachers' Colleges and other institutions of higher learning. It would replace the amounts now appropriated from the revenues for these institutions, and such appropriations would be available for other purposes.

Suggestions of Governor.
The Governor's recommendations were:

Transfer of the State inheritance tax receipts to the State school fund.

A tax of 10 per cent on the admission price to all shows, motion picture shows, theaters, operas, boxing matches, wrestling matches, basketball games, all other athletic or sporting exhibitions, without excepting exhibitions for charity.

A tax of 10 per cent on the sale price of each cigar, package of cigarettes, on chewing and smoking tobacco and snuff.

That power be conferred on the Governor to remove from office any derelict official, the Governor to be the judge of the dereliction. The Governor said this power was needed in the interest of law enforcement, and suggested to avoid the danger of political influence that the Governor be required to appoint from the same political party as that of which the removed official was a member.

Bank Legislation Favored.
Power to the State Finance Commissioner to pass upon the qualifications of bank cashiers, and power to the finance official to refuse to charter a bank in any community in which he thought a new bank was not needed. In this connection he suggested the organization of clearing houses to discontinue throughout the State, spoke favorably of legislation which the State Bankers' Association will recommend, and asked that consideration be given to a law to require banks to guarantee deposits not bearing interest.

Text of Governor Baker's Message STATE ECONOMY, HELPING HAND FOR THE FARMER AND UNITY ARE URGED

Grouping of Appropriations, Increased Revenue Without Adding to Taxes, Permanent School Fund Among Recommendations.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 7.—Following is the text of Gov. Baker's biennial message which he delivered to a joint session of the fifty-fourth general assembly today.

FOR the first time in many years, and possibly for the first time in the history of the State, the General Assembly is composed of an equal number of Democrats and Republicans.

While this might be a source of disappointment to some adherents of both the major political parties, it can, and I trust will, make for more constructive legislation than if one party had a numerical advantage over the other.

We are all citizens of the United States and of the great State of Missouri and I am sure that the oath of office we have taken in regard to the duties of a sacred declaration to do our duty to all the people of the State to the best of our ability and understanding.

It is my duty, in accordance with the Constitution, to prepare a message to this Assembly. Briefly I shall undertake to set forth some of the problems that confront us and make some suggestions regarding their solution. I cannot, of course, go into detail regarding all the departments and their activities, but I shall be glad, at any time, to discuss with any of the members of the General Assembly any of the matters in which they are especially interested and show them any reports made by any of the departments.

There has been about $1,500,000 collected for the general revenue over the estimate for the biennial period, which has made it possible for the administration to take care of the pressing financial needs and start the new biennium with a balance in the treasury of $1,414,256.52. Only one institution has a deficit. The Southwest State Teachers' College exceeded its salary appropriation by about $18,000. There are slight deficits in two or three funds, over which neither the Governor nor any other authority has control, such as the criminal courts, and the cost of assessing and collecting the State revenue. There is also a deficit in the item known as "Appropriation for Printing for the Executive Offices." There is, however, enough money in the treasury to more than take care of these deficits.

In some instances I find also some board of education or institution in one or more items of their appropriation, but there is plenty of money in other items, and that they have turned back into the treasury far more than a sufficient amount to have taken care of overdraft accounts. There are far too many items listed in the appropriations made for the different departments, boards and institutions. In many cases the items overlap, and are listed for the purpose of getting a larger appropriation than would be possible if the entire amount asked for was grouped in fewer items.

A change in this system of appropriations would permit a decrease in the number of bookkeepers and clerks necessary in keeping a check on all the appropriations. Why not group the appropriations in as few items as possible and place the responsibility of right use of such funds squarely on the department heads or institutions.

The custom of some departments, boards and institutions, of spending more than their appropriations and then calling on the General Assembly to make up the deficit must stop if the economy is to be any part of our scheme of government. Many of the activities which have brought about these increased expenditures are commendable, but no department of government should deliberately spend $1 more than has been appropriated in the regular way.

The estimated revenue for 1927-28, after deducting for the support of the public schools, will be approximately $14,569,000. I do not anticipate that the county and city taxes will be able to add much to this in back collections. They exhausted this source of revenue the past year. Nor can the auditors hope to do any better with the income tax collections than has already been accomplished. This brings us face to face with the age-old problem of securing sufficient revenue for operating expenses.

I do not want to increase the property tax, nor the income tax—neither do you. I do not want to discourage the home owner, nor the man or woman who wishes to add to his or her income honestly and legitimately from year to year. We must then find a means of increasing our revenue without adding to the burdens of those of our citizens already carrying a load heavier than they can bear.

For many years here in Missouri, there has been an opportunity to realize on his industry and integrity which is merely the birthright of all. There are, no doubt, many laws on the statutes that could be repealed without any injury whatever to the people of the State. Some legislation, of course, is needed and from time to time we must all think of plans that in our opinion would better conditions throughout the State.

Recommendations.
In addition to the permanent school fund, which is not only a revenue-producing measure, but a measure in the interest of better schools and more general educational opportunities, I respectfully recommend the following legislation, and in the interest of economy and efficiency, strongly urge:

1.—A redistricting plan for the entire State creating larger school units. Like the Rotten Borough troubles in England some centuries ago, population has shifted and some of our school districts now have very few children. It costs as much to maintain a school district of 10 children as one of 100.

2.—The creation of a budget system with teeth in it, similar to that now in operation by the Federal Government, to be operated through the Tax Commission or through a Budget Commissioner appointed by the Governor.

3.—The abolition of all boards which are not functioning; also refrain from creating new ones.

4.—Make all appropriations in as nearly a lump sum as possible giving the Governor the right to withhold a portion in addition to the right which he now has to veto.

5.—Repeal the act authorizing an appropriation for printing for the executive departments and have each department pay for its own printing out of an appropriation for "printing" for the respective departments.

6.—An appropriation for industrial rehabilitation. None was made two years ago because the law was not functioning properly. Now that we have the Workmen's Compensation Act in force, industrial rehabilitation can be made constructive and much good accomplished in co-operation with this board.

7.—Appropriate legislation for putting into effect Proposition No. 2 adopted by the people of the State Nov. 2, 1924, relating to pensions for the police of the large cities.

8.—Change the law relating to requirements for number of Negro children sufficient to establish a Negro school in a district, from 15 to 7, and provide for the education of all Negro children in districts containing less than the number required by law for the establishment of a school. Such provision might be patterned after the so-called "Light House Schools" in some of the states along the coast. At present, require all school districts to provide at the expense of the district some means of giving to the Negro children an opportunity for at least an elementary education.

9.—A separate reformatory for Negro boys.

10.—A law limiting the age of those admitted to the reformatories to 17. These institutions can never be in any sense of the word reformatories as long as growing up men and women are admitted and allowed to mix and mingle with those of less mature minds.

11.—Some agency should be created to have legal supervision over the boys and girls for a period of time after they have been released from the reformatories.

12.—The Penal Board should have the right to transfer from the reformatories to the Penitentiary. They now have the right to transfer from the Penitentiary to the Reformatory, with the approval of the Governor.

13.—There has been some comment at different times about the crowded condition of the Penitentiary and in some quarters the suggestion has been made that if the Governor would release more of the prisoners that the crowded condition would be eliminated. I do not believe that indiscriminate paroles and pardons would relieve the situation at all, as such abuse of power by the Governor would mean that the released ones would come back as fast as they are let out. Up to date I have pardoned 40, and pardoned five. None of them have returned. The penitentiary is crowded and relief is needed. Call for additional quarters needed, an intermediate reformatory, if so desired, but better still would be another prison to take care of the hardened and habitual criminals. It is only a small per cent of the total number now in prison that present any sort of problem for solution.

14.—A Constitutional Amendment.

GOV. BAKER.

souri, there has been an increasing desire on the part of the people of our Commonwealth to provide a more stable and adequate fund for our free public schools and our higher educational institutions supported by the State.

There has been about $1,500,000 collected for the general revenue over the estimate for the biennial period, which has made it possible for the administration to take care of the pressing financial needs and start the new biennium with a balance in the treasury of $1,414,256.52. Of Making Many Books

The Story of a Great Experiment

TEMPORARY HISTORIANS OF THE POPULAR

type would do the same, that the readers, who are usually seeking fact and how much of what they read is fact and how much is merely social doctrine.

Prof. Davis believes "in a just form of nationalism," and sees no necessary conflict between an enlightened patriotism and "an ardent love for wide humanity." He describes his belief in democracy

as "intense," but does not identify it with parliamentarism. "The moment of the United States," he says, "has demonstrated that democracy without parliamentar-ism is decidedly possible." One wonders; but immediately it is realized that there seems to be no clear general idea of democracy.

The Great War, he believes, would have been impossible had Germany, Austria and Russia possessed democratic governments."

But at this point there will be many who, remembering our own war hysteria and the widespread tyranny of ill-informed mass opinion as operative through many a council of defense, will ask if

Prof. Davis would describe ours as a true democratic society.

FINALLY Prof. Davis states that his history "is written out of a mature belief that only as the spirit of Christianity penetrates

the hearts of men will human brotherhood and widespread, enduring happiness be achieved; and that materialism, an impersonal,

all-pervading tyrant, is a prime foe of political and of intellectual

To correlate these admittedly estimate, but into a consistent world-view might prove a discouraging task. For is there not a close relation between modern nationalism (which is fundamentally industrial) and materialism?

And if the triumph of the Christian principle in the hearts of men is necessary to the success of the democratic principle, upon what does Prof. Davis base his intense belief in democracy as a form of society in the modern world? Can it be that he foresees an early triumph of the Christian principle?

IT would be worth anyone's while to read "Europe Since Waterloo," keeping in mind

these suggestions, which are offered in no spirit of detraction, but merely by way of reminding the author that his history is harder to achieve a consistent view of the world riddle. It might be well if every reader of this work would supplement it with a careful study of Pervin's comments on the present world dilemma in a volume entitled "Words to Deaf Ears."

Those who care to go still further into the matter, would do well to peruse awhile over that brief interpretation of Spengler's philosophy of history, which has recently been published under the title "Civilization or Civilization."

UNPUBLISHED POE

WINE-LINE VERSE

SOLD FOR $1850

Charred Bit of Paper Is

Auctioned Off During

Last Hours of John H.

Gundlach Sale.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—Nine lines,

on charred and discolored paper,

but written and initialed by Edgar

Allen Poe, brought $1850 yesterday in the closing hours of the auction of the collection of the late John

H. Gundlach of St. Louis at the American Art Association Galleries.

The poem, which was never published, and bears no title, was, in part,

"Elizabeth, it is in vain you say

'Love not'—thou say'st it in so sweet a way!

Endymion, recollect, when Luna tried

To cure his love—was cured of all beside—

His folly—pride—and passion—

for he died."

Poe lived with history to set the high marks for the auction, which closed with total receipts of $45,

458, considered by experts a fine tribute to the judgment of the St.

Louis connoisseur and civic leader.

History topped the auction, with

$4200 paid by J. P. Horn for a collection of 32 letters from Robert A.

Livingston, United States Minister

in Paris, to Rufus King, Minister

at the Court of St. James, detailing intimately and at length the play of international forces beneath the consummation of the Louisiana

Purchase.

Poe's Verse Found in Fire.

Poe's manuscript, purchased by the Rosenbach Co., had been recovered from the safe of William

Nelson, among the ruins of the Paterson, N. J. fire. The paper was scorched, but the writing undimmed.

The same purchaser paid $900

last night for Walt Whitman's manuscript of Poe, in 1000-word

Poe with "an incorrigible propensity toward nocturnal themes. A moniac undertone behind every page, among the electric lights of imaginative literature, brilliant and dazzling, but with no heat."

Mr. and Mrs. Louis M. Hall of Hotel Chase will have as their guest next week Mrs. Alice Acheson Sproule of Texas, who will arrive Thursday, Jan. 13.

Mrs. Sproule will be the soloist at the St. Louis symphony orchestra concert. Mrs. Sproule is well much entertained.

Mrs. Joseph H. Hughes of

Dallas, Tex., will arrive in St. Louis

Jan. 15 to visit her mother, Mrs.

William Bagnell of 12 Westmoreland place.

A dinner dance has been planned for the evening of Jan. 21 by Miss Cantonese Foreign Minister Also Says His Government Has Promised to Protect Americans.

By the Associated Press.
HANKOW, Jan. 7.—Anxiety for the safety of Americans in Hankow arose late last night when a British steamer was placed opposite the American consulate and Frank P. Lockhart, American Consul, circulated the American colony advising women and children to go aboard and take provisions for three days.

Fifty American women went aboard the ship and made ready to sail for Shanghai. Lockhart's circular concluded as follows: "Women and children who are unwilling to avail themselves of these facilities cannot expect to receive any guarantee of transportation facilities at a later date."

Eugene Chen, Cantonese Minister of Foreign Affairs, called the American Consul General and American business men into a conference yesterday.

Chinese Promise.
The Cantonese Minister was reported to be inquiring into the reasons underlying the movement for removal of the American women and children from the colony. He said the Cantonese Government had issued a proclamation saying they would be protected.

Foreign Minister Chen issued a proclamation blaming the British for the incident of Jan. 3, which he declared resulted in the "tragical" rounding of a number of Chinese.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Jan. 7.—Anxiety over the situation at Hankow was relieved today by receipt of word that the British concession is again controlled by the British forces.

The Chinese soldiers who had been posted in the concession to protect the foreigners were withdrawn, the messenger added, leaving only military police on duty, and the city was quiet.

Iowa Manufacturer's Conviction Had Been Reversed on Appeal in U. S. Circuit Court.

By the Associated Press.
DUBUQUE, Ia., Jan. 7.—Austin A. and William F. Cooper have been fined $10,000 each at a special session of the Federal Court, convened to permit them to plead guilty of defrauding the Government by evasion of income and excess profits taxes.

The plea same while preparations were being made to retry the Coopers after a verdict returned in 1923, holding them guilty, had been reversed by Federal Circuit Court of Appeals. Proceedings were begun in 1922 when the Federal Government filed suit for $194,300 against the Cooper brothers and Thomas E. Rafferty, stockholders of the A. A. Cooper Wagon & Buggy Co., and A. A. Cooper Inc., a holding corporation.

In their tax returns for 1916, 1918, 1919 and 1920 the defendants had reported operating losses of $226,284, but the Government charged that they had profited by $506,425 and sued to recover taxes and penalties.

Caesar Flawler, 19 years old, a Negro, of 2128 Adams street, was arrested at 4 p. m. yesterday after he had attempted to pass a $20 counterfeit bank note at the store of Matthew Machalek, 1705 South Broadway. The storekeeper discovered the counterfeit when he sent to the Lafayette-South Side Bank near his place, to get the bill changed for his customer.

He called police, who chased the Negro to a basement at 816 Carroll street and arrested him. Flawler said another Negro, named Brown, had given him the bill to get changed. He said that he had changed a $20 bill for Brown once before.

NORFOLK, Va., Jan. 7.—Mrs.
Martha Washington Tucker, 76

years old, wife of Bishop Beverley
D. Tucker of the Episcopal Diocese of Southern Virginia, and grandniece of George Washington, is seriously ill at her home. All except two of her 13 children, who are in the Orient, are at her bedside. Mrs. Tucker's father was Col. John Augustine Washington, nephew of the first President.

under County Clerks in rural counties.
Creation of larger school districts throughout the State with a view to reducing the cost of maintaining public schools in sparsely settled parts of the State.

Budget System Mentioned.
A budget system to be operated under the Tax Commission and through a Budget Commissioner appointed by the Governor. He was not definite in this recommendation and accorded the subject little more than passing mention.

Abolition of State boards not functioning, and creation of no new boards.
The making of appropriations to institutions and departments in lump sums, instead of specifying the particular purposes for which the appropriations were made. This would relieve departmental heads of a responsibility to limit expenditures for particular purposes to definite amounts.

That there be no general appropriation for printing for all executive departments, but that there be a separate printing appropriation for each department.

That there be an appropriation for industrial rehabilitation.

Police Pension Law.
Necessary legislation to make effective the police pension enabling act adopted as a constitutional amendment last November.

Change the law applying to education of Negro children to provide that a school district must provide a school if there are seven Negro children in the district. Under the present law the number is fixed at 15. He also recommended that some provision be made for the education of Negro children if there were less than seven in a district.

A separate reformatory for Negro boys.

Prohibiting the sending of any person over 17 years of age to a reformatory, and requiring that criminals 17 or over shall be committed to the penitentiary.

Provision for supervision of boys and girls after they are released from State reformatories.

Right to the Penal Board to transfer prisoners from reformatories to the penitentiary.

World Change Penal System.
Building of an additional penitentiary for hardened criminals, or an intermediate reformatory.

Submission of a constitutional amendment adding two additional Justices to the Supreme Court, making nine in all, and abolishing
the Supreme Court Commission.

Giving power to the Attorney-General to file informations in criminal cases in which the Prosecutor or Circuit Attorney has refused to act.

Requiring all State educational institutions to turn into the State treasury all fees received, the money to go into the support fund of the institutions collecting the fees.

Erection of a State office building in Jefferson City to relieve the crowded condition of the State Capitol. The Governor recommended that it be paid for from the State road fund.

Would Regulate Buses.
A measure regulating bus travel over public highways.

The creation of a committee to prepare a revision of the State statutes in advance of the next session of the Legislature.

In defending his administration from charges of extravagance, the Governor took issue with recent reports of the Missouri Association for Economy in Public Expenditures, though he made no reference to that organization.

The Governor's defense was that none of the increased cost of government was all chargeable to live officers or to the legislature, and that it was all chargeable to the people of the State in voting road bonds, solidifying bus bonds and pensions for the blind.

The Association for Economy in Expenditures reported that a very careful examination of public records had shown that expenditures had grown from $4,115,348 in 1900 to $39,666,983 in 1925, the latter
of all bond issue money. That, it reported, was the cost of government in 1925 properly comparable with the $4,115,348 of 1900.

$1,000,000 FIRM HAS LESS THAN $100 CASH, BOOKKEEPER SAYS
Police Unable to Find Two Officers of Commonwealth Reserve Fund in Chicago.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Jan. 7.—Attaches of the State's Attorney's office today took cognizance of the operations of the Commonwealth Reserve Fund, a $1,000,000 corporation dealing in investment securities, following a statement by Miss Nellie Buell, bookkeeper, that less than $100 was in the bank balance of the organization.

Information concerning the corporation was given to assistant state's attorneys by Miss Buell and Attorney Willard C. Lindsey, who said he represented 609 stockholders who have been attempting to straighten out the affairs of the concern.

Police were unable to find two officers of the company, but the wife of G. M. Meeker, former president, was questioned. She said she had not heard from her husband for several days, except to receive a letter through another man saying he would communicate with her later.

According to information, the company sold about $500,000 worth of stock to investors. Lindsey said it appeared the corporation made several bad investments and had too high an operating expense.
Stockholders retained the attorney

after they were notified in December that the usual dividend would not be forthcoming.

ment providing for two additional Supreme Court Judges and abolish the Supreme Court Commission as soon as such amendment goes into effect.

15.—Give the Governor the right to remove any official for neglect of duty, after due trial of the accused official and provide that in the event of removal of any official that the Governor must appoint from the same political party as the removed officer. The responsibility of law enforcement would then be squarely upon the Governor and the Constitutional provision that he is to see that the laws are faithfully executed could be more nearly enforced. Of course most people would concede to the Governor the right to remove his own appointees but under existing laws there is some doubt as to his authority in this matter after the Senate confirmation. Until the Senate has confirmed, all appointees are only temporary.

17.—I understand that the Missouri State Bankers' Association will have some suggestions to place before the General Assembly. While I have not seen any of their measures I feel sure that whatever this organization might have to offer would be in the interest of better financial conditions throughout the State. I should like, however, to suggest that no person should be eligible to hold a position as bank cashier until he has shown the Finance Commissioner that he is amply qualified for such responsible position. The Finance Commissioner should be given authority to decide whether or not a bank is needed in any locality applying for a charter. Clearing house associations out in the State similar to such association in the cities might prove a strong factor in strengthening weak banks and might be the means of solving the inspection problem. It might be well for your committee on banking to go into the question of a Bank Guarantee Law requiring banks to guarantee all deposits not bearing interest.

18.—A law requiring the State educational institutions to turn all fees collected into the State Treasury to the credit of the support fund of the respective institution.

19.—Erection of an office building on the Capitol grounds to be paid for from the road fund.

20.—Provide for the supervision, regulation and conduct of the transportation of persons for hire over the public highways of the State of Missouri by motor vehicles.

21.—Amend the laws applying to the initiative and referendum so as to provide that the circulation of all petitions for either the initiative or the referendum shall be under the supervision of the County Clerks or election boards.

22.—Therefore, the General Assembly has attempted during the course of a revision session, to make such changes in the existing laws as might be possible to revise the statutes, leaving to a committee appointed by the General Assembly, the duty of publishing the Revised Statutes. This committee had no legislative authority, and under the Constitution, could have none. The result is that the committee had to publish the statutes in the form in which they found them.

As a result of this court, the Revised Statutes of Missouri have accumulated a mass of unconstitutional, obsolete, conflicting, ambiguous, duplicate and unnecessary statutes. The presence of these statutes on our legislative books seriously interferes with the efficiency of the laws of Missouri.

I, therefore, respectfully recommend to your honorable body, that you consider the advisability of establishing a revision commission whose duty it shall be, in advance of the convening of the General Assembly in the year 1929, to prepare and submit to that Assembly, in the form of proposed legislative enactments, such recommendations as will tend to remove the difficulties in the statutes heretofore mentioned.

Agriculture.

I trust that our Federal Congress will pass some constructive legislation for the aid of agricultural conditions. I feel sure that this General Assembly is willing to co-operate in any way that will be beneficial to the farmer.

State Parks.

The acquisition and development of a state park system has been in line with the progress of a greater Missouri, and has met with the general approval of the public. I recommend that the Legislature continue to give its support to the expansion of the state park system and to the conservation of Missouri's wild life resources.

Labor.

The ratification of the Workmen's Compensation Act at the recent election was a forward step by the people of this State. It will mean much to labor and is fair to all concerned. The act is now functioning. The commission is well organized and we may look for some real constructive work from this piece of progressive legislation.

Conclusion.

Throughout this message I have tried to make a few plain suggestions, leaving your honorable body to decide whether such suggestions are worth while. I sincerely trust that you will heed the suggestions of the Tax Commission in the matter of appropriations. Let's stay within the estimated revenue even if we have to practice the most rigid economy. You members have been selected to represent your constituents and the State of Missouri. You are to exercise your own judgment. No one can legally dictate to you. Your own knowledge and your own conscience will be your guide.

I trust that you will treat all lobbyists alike, whether they come as individuals or representatives of some organization. Require them to file with your honorable body a full and complete statement as to the amount of money collected to carry on their campaign and from whom collected, and the amount paid out and to whom paid and for what purpose.

I trust that we may all work together to the end that our very best efforts can be put forth in the service of all the people of this State and when our work is completed that we may have the joy of realizing that our efforts have been progressive and constructive.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified croscote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, croscote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agents for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat trouble. Creomulsion contains, in addition to croscote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the croscote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchitis, asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

A Man of Rare Professional Attainment

The originator of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery was the late Dr. J. C. Pierce, M.D. At first he practiced medicine in Western Pennsylvania and his unusual ability and success were soon recognized there, then he moved to Buffalo, N. Y., and established the World's Dispensary where his famous home remedies have ever since been made.

Each succeeding year the sale of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has been greatly increased. Evidently people appreciate the fact that it increases the appetite, stimulates the digestion, helps to enrich the blood, clears the skin of eruptions and blemishes, and makes both men and women feel as they did when they were young. It contains no harmful ingredients.

Ask your nearest druggist for Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, in tablet or liquid form, or send 10 cents for a trial package of tablets to Dr. Pierce's Clinic, in Buffalo, N. Y.

BETTER THAN WHISKY FOR COLDS AND FLU

To cut short a cold or cough due to a cold and prevent complications, nothing gives such quick and delightful relief as ASPIRINOL, a delightful elixir, medicated with the latest scientific remedies that are most and endorsed by the highest medical authorities.

Every druggist is authorized by the manufacturer to refund your money while you wait at the counter if you cannot feel relief coming in two minutes. Relief means: Clears the head; relieves the congestion in the nose and throat; checks excessive flow of mucus; banishes the dull, frontal headache and that chilly, creepy, aching feeling that attends a cold.

Aspirinol is a complete cold remedy in itself, including agents that almost instantly begin to relieve the distressing symptoms and later remove the cause by acting gently and powerfully on the liver and bowels. Aspirinol is perfectly safe for children as well as adults. Quickest and best relief for catarrh of nose and children's "coughing fits" with phlegm at night. Only fifty cents for a family bottle. SENATOR GOULD TELLS OF $100,000 'CAMPAIGN GIFT'

Testifies Before Senate Committee as to Payment
That Canadian Judge
Called a "Bribe."

SQUABBLE OVER
EVIDENCE RULES

Shortridge and Walsh Clash and Legal Rules on Testimony Are Finally Abandoned.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—Testifying in his own defense before a Senate investigating committee, Senator Gould (Rep.) of Maine said today that $100,000 paid out in Canada by his interests which has been called a bribe by a Canadian judge, was sent to a Canadian campaign fund by his New York associates against his judgment and without his consent.

Senator Walsh (Dem.) of Montana, author of the investigating resolution, precipitated a dispute when he offered the journal of the New Brunswick (Canada) House of Assembly, containing an opinion of Judge McKeown, who held that Senator Gould had participated in a $100,000 bribe of a former Premier of the province.

Gould's Counsel Objects.
F. W. Hinchley, chief counsel for Gould, objected on the grounds that it was not legal evidence, and Senator Shortridge (Rep.) of California, acting chairman of the committee, ruled the objection was well taken, as "the rights of men have suffered by Senate committees not adhering to the rules of law on admissibility of evidence."

"I don't propose to sit here and have a man's character besmirched by hearsay and scandal," Short-ridge added.
"You can quit any time you please, but the technical rules of evidence do not apply to Senate hearings," retorted Walsh. "Usually a judge waits to hear arguments before he renders an opinion. I despaired from making any impression on the mind of the Senator from California, in view from what he has said."

"And I despair from making any impression on the mind of the Senator from Montana," rejoined Shortridge.

The committee overruled the chairman and Senator Walsh read the judgment, which he said would form the basis of the inquiry as to whether the money was wrongfully paid in connection with a railroad contract.

Reporter Testifies.

Oliver H. S. Garrett, a New York World reporter, the first witness testified that he had been sent by his newspaper to investigate the charges against Senator Gould. He was unable to find the original copy of Judge McKeown's judgment, and the clerk of the New Brunswick House of Assembly told him that he had been unable to find it.

"The clerk," he said, "presumed the Liberal party had removed the original document."
Under cross-examination by Attorney Hinchley, Garrett said he had called Fulton J. Redman, the Democratic opponent of Senator Gould in the recent election, when he started out on his story.
He added that he had heard that Redman and others had sent men to New Brunswick to get evidence on the Gould charges, but that he had made an independent inquiry.

E. S. Carter of St. Johns, N. B., who described himself as a special newspaper writer and political organizer for the Liberal party of New Brunswick, testified that it was a general understanding in New Brunswick that every outside corporation doing business for the province was compelled to make campaign contributions in 1912 and that Senator Gould was acting for his company when he contributed the $100,000.

Counsel for Gould brought out that Carter was receiving $25 a day by the Senate committee for coming to Washington to testify.
Walsh explained that this was done at his suggestion and with the committee's consent.

SENTENCED FOR RESCUING CAT

Humane Society Officer Must Serve Hour in Custody.

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 7.—Because he broke into a candy store, which was in the hands of a Federal receiver, to remove a marrowed cat, H. M. Lemgwell, agent for a Humane Society, was sentenced by Federal Judge Jones to one hour in custody of a United States Marshal.

Judge Jones said he wanted to curb "intrusion of State and county officers into the affairs of the Federal Court."

WOODS EXPLAINS HIS PART IN PRIMARIES

Nominee for I. C. C. Denies He Collected or Handled Money for Senator Pepper.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—Cyrus E. Woods, nominated by President Coolidge to the Interstate Commerce Commission, told a Senate committee today that if his nomination was confirmed, he would not participate in the commission's decision in the pending lake cargo coal freight rate case. He explained that it would be an extremely bad case for him to take part in, because it involved rates from his home district.

Pressed by Senator Neely (Dem.) of West Virginia, who was former Ambassador to Spain and Japan said that if there were a continuation of the case after the commission had rendered its decision in the pending application, he would feel that he would still be ineligible to participate.

"If I go on the commission, I shall try to treat all questions from a broad national viewpoint and not from a sectional viewpoint," said Woods, whose nomination is being opposed because of his participation in the recent Republican primary in Pennsylvania and his former service as general counsel for the Pittsburgh Coal Co. Woods said he did not seek appointment to the commission, but that Senator Reed (Rep.) of Pennsylvania had asked him if he would permit the presentation of his name to the President.

"Isn't it a fact that Secretary Mellon was largely responsible for your appointment?" asked Senator Goff (Rep.) of West Virginia. "I don't know," Senator Reed knows the details, I do not."

Woods told the committee that after Reed had spoken to him he saw Secretary Mellon and asked his opinion as to his fitness for the office.

"Did you ask Secretary Mellon what you were to do after you got on the commission?" asked Senator Wheeler (Dem.) of Montana. "Absolutely not," Woods returned with emphasis. "And I want to say right here that no one has any strings on me and I don't think any one wants to have any."

Questioned at length about his participation in the Pennsylvania primary last summer, Woods denied testimony of Joseph E. Grunsky before the Senate Campaign Funds Committee that he had been the manager of the combined Pepper-Fisher-Smith-Woodward ticket on behalf of which nearly $2,000,000 was spent.

The former Ambassador said there had been friction between the Pepper and Fisher headquarters and that about three weeks before the campaign ended he was called to as a sort of Ambassador to iron out the differences. He added that only controversial matters were referred to him.

There is not a line of testimony before the Reed committee to show that I collected any money or distributed any money in that campaign," Woods said. "I had no knowledge of it in any way whatsoever. If there was anything wrong in what I did in that campaign then you have got to say that no citizen of any State can take any part in any political campaign."

JURY REFUSES TO BREAK CALNANE'S
$135,000 WILL

Finds for Widow After Twenty-Five Minutes of Deliberation, and Against Physician's Sister.

TEACHER ASKED FOR HALF OF ESTATE

Testified She Had Financed
the Doctor's Education and Charged That His Mind Was Unsound.

A jury in Circuit Judge Killoran's court today refused to set aside the will of Dr. John A. Calnane, be-questing the bulk of his $135,000 estate to his widow, Mrs. Mary Cal-nane. The jury went out at 2 p. m.
upon completion of arguments by counsel, and brought in its verdict 25 minutes later. The trial began last Monday.

The will was contested by the testator's sister, Miss Mary F. Cal-nane, Soldan High School teacher, to whom he left $33,000. It was made April 18, 1924, a month before his death. The widow and sister each asserted that it was her money and sacrifices that made possible Dr. Calnane's success as a physician.

Married Life Reviewed.
Yesterday witnesses went back 30 years to review the married life of the Calnanes. James Muldoon, a cousin of the physician, related that Dr. Calnane was a struggling beginner when he met the widow of Charles Curby in the late '90s.
Calling on the Muldoons at 3227 Clark avenue, Dr. Calnane inadvertently rang the door bell of their upstairs neighbor and Mrs.
Curby answered the ring, the witness said. This chance meeting, Muldoon testified, ripened into a deeper acquaintance. After their marriage in 1900, he understood, Mrs. Calnane brought him a considerable fortune and swelled his fortune from among her acquaintances.

Mrs. Calnane, called to the stand, testified that her first husband had left a comfortable fortune to their son, Joseph L. Curby, and when the son died he bequeathed this to her, about $60,000 in bonds and $12,000 in real estate, which she entrusted to her husband.

She described Dr. Calnane's early struggles for success declaring that for seven years they lived in a flat on North Grand avenue, with two living rooms for themselves, while she acted as office assistant, did the cleaning and sometimes kept boarders. Her husband, she declared, was gentle, kind and loving, and never spoke of any financial obligation to his sister.

Helped Educate Brother.
Miss Calnane, by previous testimony, has sought to prove that, as a young school teacher in Maine, she supplied money from her modest earnings to pay her brother's way through the Columbia University medical school, and that he repeatedly promised her half of his estate as recompense. She alleged that her brother was of unsound mind and unduly influenced by his wife when he made the will during his last illness.

BROTHER OF SLAIN ILLINOIS
MAYOR RELEASED ON BOND
Gus Adams, charged with killing of Ward Jones in Gang War, Returns to His Home.
Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BENTON, Ill., Jan. 7.—Gus
Adams, brother of Mayor Jay Adams of West City, who was killed Dec. 12 by unidentified gunmen when he stepped to his front door to receive a letter, purporting to be from Carl Shelton, East St.
Louis gangster, is back in Benton
after having been taken by Sheriff
J. S. Pritchard and other Franklin County officers to Shawneetown yesterday to be arraigned on the charge of killing Ward Jones, a lieutenant of Charles Birger, gang leader. The warrant was sworn out by Connie Ritter, another Birger lieutenant.

The State's Attorney of Gallatin County was willing to release Adams on a $10,000 bond, which was immediately signed by Benton men and Adams was escorted back to this city. The bond is returnable at the next meeting of the Gallatin County grand jury.

The body of Jones was found in a creek one mile from Equality,
Oct. 26 last, by Alvin Woods, a Negro of Harrisburg who saw the hand of the dead man protruding from the water. The head had been wrapped in a blanket. The body apparently had been thrown there in an automobile. The night before William B. McQuay was riddled with machine gun bullets, three miles east of Herrin on the Johnson City road.

Free's Robber, Pays for Loot.
MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Jan. 7.— Patrolman George Engels, after pursuing and capturing a robber, released him and the officer paid for the stolen goods. When arrested the robber related a story of a starving family and his inability to get work. The officer investigated, paying for bread and butter the man had taken, and

KILLED ON RAILWAY TRESTLE Unidentified Man Tried to Hang on Side at Sorento, Ill.

A middle-aged, unidentified man was killed yesterday while crossing a trestle on the Nickel Plate railroad at Sorento, Ill. The man climbed over the side of the trestle intending to hang on until the train passed but his head was struck by a beam on one of the cars. In the man's pocket was a ticket from Panama to Sorento.

In the morgue at Sorento is also the body of another man, unidentified, who was killed 10 days ago by a 13-year-old youth now held in the Greenville jail. The elder man and the boy were traveling together when they quarreled and the man's death resulted. The youth said he did not know the man but had met him along the way.

How Doctors Treat Colds and the Flu

To break up a cold overnight or to cut short an attack of grippe, influenza, sore throat or tonsillitis, physicians and druggists are now recommending Calotabs, the purified and refined calomel compound tablet that gives you the effects of calomel and salts combined, without the unpleasant effects of either.

One or two tablets at bedtime with a swallow of water—that's all. No salts, no nausea nor the slightest interference with your eating, work or pleasure. Next morning your cold has vanished, your system is thoroughly purified and you are feeling fine with a hearty appetite for breakfast. Eat what you please—no danger.

MILK FOR CHILDREN

Serve Part of Quota in Other Foods.

Authorities are for the most part agreed that a quart of milk daily is required if a child depends on this food for his lime and phosphorus.

Those who study diets very carefully, however, realize that for some children this is too large a quantity. The latest opinion seems to be that for such children, one should not insist on more than a pint and one-half, or three cups. The reason for this is obvious. Lessening the intake of milk will be less apt to interfere with the children's appetite for other foods. The minerals contained in the cup of milk which has been discarded may easily be made up by a judicious addition of fresh butter, vegetables and fruits.

While on this subject, it may be well to remind ourselves that it is not necessary to take the needed quart of milk solely in the form of a beverage. Stirred into puddings, used as the basis for vegetable soups or in cocoa, it is comparatively easy to hide the entire quart so that the child who either dislikes milk or whose system rejects it, will have no trouble in getting the required amount.

Spiced Nuts.

For each cup blanched nuts, use about one tablespoon fat or oil in hot frying pan and heat.

Distribute nuts in thin even layer on surface of pan. Fry slowly, stirring often, until nuts are even brown. Drain on absorbent brown paper or paper toweling. For each cup nuts, mix three-quarter teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon each cinnamon, cloves, allspice, and sprinkle freely over nuts. Allow to become cool and crisp before serving.

One-Crust Fruit Pies Out-Distance Other Types

Open-Faced Pies, Topped Off With Whipped Cream or Meringue, Are the Latest Fashion.

THE last word from food fashion centers is the news that the latest fruit pie is the one-crust pie. It is a new model, differing only in the omission of the top crust. Its wearing quality is much better as the full rich flavor of the fruit is retained and the crust is more easily digested. This is a new model, containing the best of the heating qualities of the old pie "mother" used to make.

Wouldn't you like to make your own fruit pie according to this new pattern? Canned berries are particularly good in this type pie—strawberries, raspberries, blackberries, peaches and apples are good, too, and cherries.

To one quart of fruit add one cup of sugar and stand over night. In the morning when ready to make the pie drain off the juice from the fruit and cook in a saucepan just as for jelly making, except the juice is not cooked quite to the consistency of jelly.

As pie crust has a high percentage of fat, the two crust pie is safe of fat, the two crust pie is safe of fat, the two crust pie is safe of fat.

When baking the crust for one-crust pie it is an economy of time to make small crust cases over inverted muffin tins and make them at the same time. These may be used the second day, filled with different fruit or used as patie shells.

Berries keep their fresh fruit flavor and form so much better when this method of pie-making is followed.

Peaches and apples make excellent one-crust pies, too. The peaches are cooked in a syrup first, then put into the baked crust. Whipped cream may be served over the pie if desired. Apples of medium size are pared, cut in halves and cored. The pie tin is lined with crust and the halves are placed with cut side down, sprinkled with sugar, cinnamon and dotted with butter.

Prune Nut Pie. Line pan and bake pastry. Soak one pound of prunes overnight and simmer till soft. Remove stones, cut in pieces and add three cups cup sugar and three-fourths cup chopped nut meats. Fold in two egg whites beaten stiffly.

Four into baked shell. Bake for 15 minutes. When cool, decorate with one cup whipped cream to which has been added two tablespoons of powdered sugar and one-half teaspoon vanilla.

Peach Meringue Pie. Fill a baked pie shell with sliced peaches, either fresh canned or smoked, sweetened to taste. Cover with a meringue and bake in a slow oven 10 to 12 minutes.

French Apple Pie. Line pie pan with pastry. For the filling take six large apples, one-fourth cup nut meats, one-half cup raisins, one cup of sugar and one teaspoon cinnamon or mace. Cut enough apples in eighths to fill the bottom of pie pan, which has been lined with pastry. Add chopped nutmeats and raisins, and place remaining apples, cut in quarters, on top. Sift together sugar and mace or cinnamon and sprinkle over apples. Bake in a moderate oven.

Cherry Whang Pie. Line a pie pan with rich crust and fill with canned cherries. Stand aside while you mix together one cup sugar, one tablespoon flour, one cup sweet cream. Pour

Sweet Sandwiches. Many are the sweet sandwiches which nuts make possible. Here the chopped nuts are added to jam, preserves, icing, chopped raisins, dates or figs, and used between slices of bread, then to be cut into finger or fancy stripes. Fondant with nuts makes a very rich sandwich filling. Many simple sandwiches can be spread with a paste of fondant and nuts. Honey and nuts and raisins make another desirable filling for the holiday tea sandwich. Nuts with cranberry jelly and cream cheese is still another choice.

Cabbage Salad. One small head cabbage, three eggs, one teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon pepper, one teaspoon sugar, one-half teaspoon mustard, one-half cup mild vinegar, shredded cabbage in long thin strands. Make salad dressing by beating egg yolks slightly, adding dry ingredients and when well mixed adding vinegar. Cook until thick and while hot pour over cabbage.

FOOD VALUE OF GELATIN

Today the perfected product known as granulated gelatin is also known as a food of unusual value. Dietary authorities now teach us that gelatin can appear in the dietary of even the six months old baby and should continue to play an important part in feeding the baby as he grows to adulthood.

This baby, for example, may frequently have a teaspoon of granulated gelatin added to his daily milk formula, the quality to be increased gradually as his months and years are added until him.

What does it do for the baby? It changes the curds of the milk into thoroughly digested food material that he may one day surprise his mother by attaining a far more luscious stage of development than was deemed possible.

Then as the baby grows older, gelatin remains, it is true as a supplementary food, but it supplements so effectively that it has a place of its own.

The emulsifying property which gelatin possesses continues to be of advantage. Changing tough curds of milk into soft is almost equally valuable for the older children as for the infant. Fever patients, tuberculosis patients and diabetic patients are all helped along their paths toward health by the judicious use of gelatin and ice cream to which gelatin has been added.

Then nuts are also delicious when added to stuffing for pork or fowl.

NUTS IN COOKERY

Ground Nut Meats Used in Many Dishes.

Nuts may be digestible as cereals. I suggest that you think of such nuts as can be ground into fine meal or such as can be served cut in small pieces. To begin with nut meal, this can be used in any number of ways. It is palatable and digestible used in the preparation of cookies, of cakes, of soup and even to form the basis of croquettes or vegetable roasts.

To prepare nuts for the latter form of dishes, moisten them and mix with sufficient breadcrumbs and seasoning to make a palatable mixture. This mixture may then be shaped with the hand so as to form either cakes or a long roll. In the latter case, the roll is placed in a baking pan with a sauce around it and baked until thoroughly heated.

Then nuts are also delicious when added to stuffing for pork or fowl.

Winter treats from the Tropics

WINTER, summer, any time of the year, you can enjoy the delicious taste of this favorite of tropical fruits—the banana.

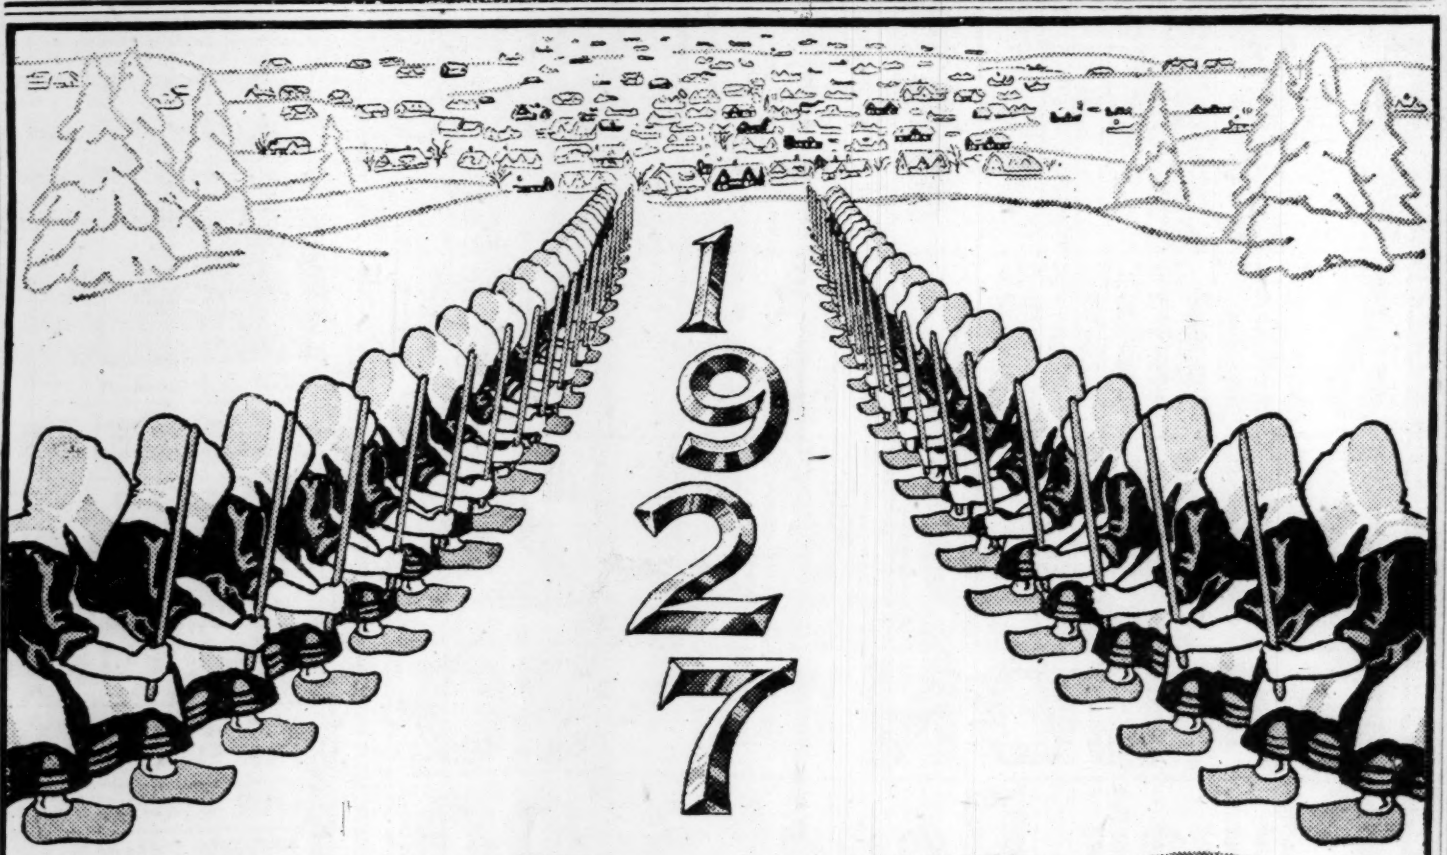

Nature makes it easy to deliver this all-fruit to your door in a germ-proof package. Nature also makes it easy for you to tell just when the banana is perfectly ripe—and therefore best to eat.

For the sealed skin of this year-round fruit is both a protection and a sign of ripeness. When it is yellow from tip to tip and generously flecked with brown, then the banana is packed with natural sugars—energy elements that even small children can digest with ease.

Old Dutch safeguards the New Year with

Healthful Cleanliness

Healthful Cleanliness through the year Brings you happiness and good cheer

Year by year millions of housewives use Old Dutch Cleanser to protect the home with Healthful Cleanliness; they know there's nothing like it for removing the health-endangering dirt and invisible impurities.

Old Dutch has this further merit: it doesn't scratch. The microscope shows that its particles are flaky and flat shaped, forming a perfect contact with the surface, and, like thousands of tiny erasers, do their cleaning by erasing all uncleanness without scratching or marring the surface. Old Dutch makes everything Spick and Span and leaves surfaces super-clean, wholesome and hygienic.

As Healthful Cleanliness is a safeguard to health, so is Old Dutch your safeguard to Healthful Cleanliness.

There's nothing else like it alternately until three cups of flour and one cup of butter milk have been used. Add one egg beaten until very light and four level teaspoons baking powder.

Bake in buttered and warmed small muffin pans or in bakings pan. Bake in quick oven 15 minutes. When cool spread top with whipped cream.

Creamed Endive.
Six endives, one cup white sauce. Prepare the endives by removing all the outer leaves. Wash and boil in hot water for 20 minutes. Drain, chop in small pieces and combine with the white sauce.

Steamed Pudding.
Three-quarters cup suet, one cup chopped figs, two eggs, one-half teaspoon salt, one-half cup cocoa, two and one-half cups bread crumbs and one-quarter cup milk.

Chop the figs, bread crumbs and suet together. Have ready the beaten eggs and add them to the first mixture. Add all other materials and steam in a buttered mold. Serve with chocolate sauce.

Potato Soup.
Two cucumbers, one onion, two boiled potatoes, three tomatoes, six cups water, two tablespoons margarine, pepper and salt.

Peel and cut up the cucumbers. Place in a saucepan with sufficient water and let them cool slowly. In another saucepan cool together the tomatoes, the cut-up onions and the margarine. Combine with the cucumbers and cook for 30 minutes longer. Strain through a colander alternately with the mashed potatoes. Return the mixture to the fire and cook for 10 minutes. Serve very hot.

White Corn Bread.
One cup white cornmeal, one-quarter cup white flour, three-tablespoons margarine, two cups milk, two eggs, one teaspoon salt, one cup sour cream, one-quarter cup sugar, one-half teaspoon bicarbonate of soda.

Beat eggs well and combine with the sugar. Add the combined milk and cream after dissolving the soda with this mixture. Have ready the sifted flour, cornmeal and salt. Beat this into the other mixture until the batter is quite smooth. Have ready an iron frying pan and when this is very hot, add the margarine until the pan is thoroughly greased. Pour in the batter and place in a hot oven. Bake for 30 minutes.

Mix and sift the dry ingredients. Add sugar to slightly beaten eggs. Add the 'pecans' sprinkled with flour, then the dry ingredients. Bake moderately slow in small muffin tins.

Local Stars to Face Bill Tilden in Exhibition

Brown and Josties to Play Doubles Match at Washington U.

William T. Tilden II, one of the great former tennis players who slipped somewhat last year but have made New Year resolutions to "come back" in 1922, will exhibit his present form, which said to be an improvement much of the tennis he played in 1921, at Washington University, next Wednesday night. He will engage in two matches.

Wray Brown of St. Louis met him in singles, and paired with Fred Josties of St. Louis will oppose Tilden in a fourth player in doubles. The player is expected to be (for) Coen of Kansas City. Tilden early this week announced he had cancelled his plans to go to France for the winter season and would leave the next Monday for California for a short rest, before going to St. Louis for the Miami championship in February.

Played Here in 1921. Tilden's last appearance in St. Louis was as a participant in the National Clay Court championships, played at the Triple A in 1921, when he won the Western, the California, and him to five sets in the fifth and in the final, young George of Chicago captured the third and third sets, making five necessary. In the semifinal Wray Brown, who will oppose Tilden in the exhibition here, won eight games from the champion first two sets, the scores 6-3 and 7-5, but Tilden won the final, 6-1.

Tilden was national champion six years, from 1920 to 1925, inclusive, and national clay champion from 1922 to 1925, inclusive.

Seabough to Retire. By the Associated Press. SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Jan. 7.—W. Seabough, president of the Western Association during the past three years, and who has been with various clubs since 1910, announced today that he would retire as president of the association after the next season. He would then turn the reins over to his successor.

BILL JAMES EXPECTED TO TELL WHO RECEIVED

ONLY $355 OF $1100 POOL IS ACCOUNTED FOR

Former Tiger Pitcher Also Will Be Asked Why Chicago Team Rewarded Detroit Men During 1917.

By J. Roy Stockton.

Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff. CHICAGO, Jan. 7.—"Bill" James, the "pay-off" man of the Detroit American League Club of 1917, was scheduled to take the witness stand in Commissioner Landis' baseball court today to name the men who received parts of the $1100 pool raised by the Chicago White Sox and to tell, if he will, why the Chicago team collected the money and presented it, through "Chick" Gandil and "Sweede" Risberg, to the Detroit players. James, one of the Black Sox of 1919, barred from baseball for the part he played in the crooked world series of that year, in which the Chicago team "sloughed" the Cincinnati Reds, says the $1100 pool was raised to reward the Detroit players, mostly pitchers, for throwing the games to the White Sox. Other players of both teams involved insist the money was collected to reward Detroit pitchers for beating Boston in the series which decided the American League race.

James, according to Risberg, was given the money and he will be asked to tell who received the $755 unaccounted for by witnesses who claim to have seen the money. Commissioner Landis said last night, but if they were coming Saturday, as press dispatches said, he would be glad to see them and talk over the Cobb-Speaker case.

Ty Cobb, who was accused with Speaker, of "fixing" a Detroit-Cleveland game in 1919, on which bets were made, was a witness in the Risberg scandal hearing before Landis, but said nothing directly to the commissioner about his own case.

In his testimony, Ty said there were lots of statements issued in the past six months which were untrue, referring to the "Dutch" Leonard statement which launched the charges against Cobb and Speaker. He was answering the commissioner's question about the authenticity of a statement in a Detroit newspaper about a "fixed" series between Detroit and St. Louis, and this, too, Cobb said, was untrue.

Cobb seemed one of the most jovial of all of the 29 players who testified before Landis, and joked Eddie Collins about "being one of us now."

Landis gave Cobb permission to go back home after Ty testified he never had heard anything about the 1917 "sloughed" series in the affidavit of "Sweede" Risberg.

NEW HEAVY PROSPECT IS 19 YEARS OLD AND WEIGH 245 POUNDS

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, Jan. 7.—Walk Miller, manager of Tiger Flowers and Young Stribling, says he has discovered a promising heavyweight prospect with world's championship reach and feet.

The young giant is a Tampa Negro, named Roy Clark, 19 years old, and weighing 245 pounds. Clark wears 15½ shoes and his huge arms extended stretch 87½ inches. Miller said he had never been able to get a pair of padded mitts big enough to permit the fighter to close his fists.

Due to his size, Clark has had but a few matches, but has won them all by knockouts.

Clark is being developed in training matches with Flowers and Stribling, preparatory to a challenge to some of the lesser heavyweight contenders.

BIG 10 BASKET TEAMS IN ACTION TOMORROW

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, Jan. 7.—The Western Conference jumps into its basketball season tomorrow with all 10 teams in action and the championship to be won by Indiana, Wisconsin, Michigan, Ohio and Purdue on the field of early showings.

Indiana, with a list of veterans headed by Culver and Winston, was regarded as having the best chance at the title from the viewpoint of experienced players while the other four teams promise strong opposition with a good collection of seasoned toppers.

Iowa comes to Chicago tomorrow night to open the season while Illinois, journeyed to Northwestern, Indiana to Wisconsin, Michigan to Minnesota and Ohio State to Purdue.

Felch Refuses to Talk. A Post-Dispatch reporter yesterday tried to interview Oscar "Happy" Felch, one of the Black Sox, in his home at Milwaukee, but Felch declined to discuss the case. He said he would talk and tell all he knew if he received from Commissioner Landis the money that he thought was due him as his share of the second-place fund earned by the White Sox in 1920. Felch estimated this at about $1000.

It is not the money alone, Felch said, "I would not talk and make it tough for the other fellows just for money. I could not be paid for telling my story. I would not sell my evidence. But I would

Landis Willing To See Speaker And His Lawyer

Commissioner Says, However, He Has Had No Definite Word From Tris.

By the Associated Press.

WRAY'S COLUMN

It Might Happen.

ONE report has it that Bill Gibson signed to manage Gene Tunney as long as the fighter shall remain champion. Another one says that it was for one year only. Jack Dempsey sends us the hot-aerogram that both reports will turn out to be correct, if he (Jack himself) is chosen as Tunney's opponent, next September.

You never can tell. As compared with his Philadelphia affair, Dempsey would enter the ring with a lot of weight off—off his mind.

Jack Kearns saw to it that Dempsey entered the ring at the Sequi stadium with everything on his mind but the fight.

Gone Are the Days.

TIME was when a fight champion felt forgotten if a fuss were not made over him at every hotel he visited. If a procession did not follow him around the streets and in the saloons and he wanted the wide world to know about it. To Tex it meant the overthrow of the political opposition which, for some time, has been dogging his every step and which last September forced him to show the world he was still a contender.

He did it then by taking the greatest event in history out of New York and sending the lucrative plum to Philadelphia—where it set a world's record for financial and attendance success.

That was one solar plexus blow to his rivals, who are said to have the backing and influence of no less a person than Mayor Jim McElvaine, and who are represented by Hubert F. Gay, the actual matchmaker for the group.

Rickard's St. Louis coup took the biggest plum of '22 away from his rivals.

Corner on Contenders.

Now Humberto is tied up with Lightweight Jack Delaney and Jack has no place to go but out—the same direction Humberto is headed.

Rickard has signed all available "logical contenders" to contracts and there is no good thing left for even a light-heavyweight, with Delaney as the bait.

Once more Rickard has proved that human ingenuity is equal to any human energy—when the right man is pinched, at least.

TAMPA RACING MEET WILL OPEN JAN. 15

By the Associated Press. TAMPA, Fla., Jan. 7.—The convention of Harvey Myers, formerly president of the West Coast Jockey Club, on charges of violating the State gambling law, will not affect a meeting scheduled to open Jan. 15, officials believe.

Leo Dandurand, one of the owners of Tampa Downs, said a hundred horses had been sent here for the meeting. More than 600 are expected for the meeting.

Myers of Covington, Ky., announced he would appeal from the verdict that makes him liable to imprisonment for a year and fine of $500 on each of two counts. H. G. Brodbeck, former manager of the track, and 38 other former officials face charges similar to those of which Myers was convicted.

The charges grew out of the operations of pari-mutuel machines at Tampa Downs last winter.

Concordia Plays Teachers Tonight

Concordia Seminary will open its basketball schedule tonight against the State Teachers' College of Cape Girardeau on the Armory floor, Grand and Market. The contest will start at 8:30 o'clock.

Coach Eber Simpson has been driving the seminarians hard lately, as the locals will need all their strength against the Teachers, whose squad is intact from last year, when they were defeated by a small margin.

Concordia's starting lineup will be as follows: Schmidt and Chuvala, forwards; Wiering, center; Reinke and Capt. Ernest Kuehlich, guards.

Fairmount Club Directors Elect Officers Jan. 15

Arrangements for Derby and Other Stakes to Be Made at Meeting.

The board of directors of the Fairmount Jockey Club will hold their regular meeting at East St. Louis, Jan. 15 to elect officers and make plans for the coming spring meeting. Arrangements for the Fairmount Derby and other stakes will be made.

At a meeting of representatives of the various race tracks of Illinois, yesterday at Chicago, the temporary organization of the Illinois Turf Association was made permanent with Stuyvesant Park, Chicago, as the headquarters.

Robert M. Schweizer was elected vice chairman and Charles Bidwell, secretary. Various committees were appointed and business of an important nature transacted.

While the question of racing dates for 1922 was given consideration, the schedule was not completed, but is expected to be completed by the 15th. In all probability Aurora will open the spring racing season and the schedule of last year will not be changed to any great extent.

The number of jays which each track will run has not been decided upon. It is generally understood that the meetings will not be of long duration.

The new turf body, which includes Washington Park, Lincoln Fields, Fairmount Park, Hawthorne, Peoria and Aurora, is similar to the Jockey Club of New York, which rules the thoroughbred sport in the metropolitan State. The Illinois Association will have the power to make dates and regulate stakes and purses.

$5000 ADDED TO PURSE FOR CIRCUIT FEATURE

By the Associated Press. LEXINGTON, Ky., Jan. 7.—The value of the Kentucky Futurity for foals of 1922 was increased to $25,000 yesterday by the board of managers of the Kentucky Trotting Horse Breeders' Association. The increase was in the form of a $5000 racing division added to the stakes for 2-year-olds, at $7000.

Edward A. Tipton resigned as president after serving for 16 years. He was secretary for 10 years.

McBRIDE WILL MEET ALUMNI TONIGHT

The McBride High basketball squad will play its annual contest with the alumni tonight at the McBride gym. The graduate team will be made up of McDonough, Kook, Ed Morris, Anderson, Frank and Chartrand. The school lineup will include Concession, Morfett, McMahon, Boyle and Westling.

McBride has had a successful season so far, defeating Central, Cleveland and Cathedral High of Belleville.

Swim Dates Announced.

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, Jan. 7.—The National A. A. U. men's indoor swimming championship events will be held here, on charges of violating the State gambling law, will not affect a meeting scheduled to open Jan. 15, officials believe.

Clark, chairman of the athletic committee of the Chicago Athletic Club and Charles A. Dean, of the Illinois Athletic Club, announced last night. Plans of the two clubs are subject to the approval of the National Championship Swimming Committee, of which John T. Taylor of Pittsburgh is chairman.

Morgan Battles McGraw Tonight

Junior Lightweight Champion Steps Out of Class for First Time.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—Tod Morgan of Seattle, holder of the junior lightweight title, returns to Tex Rickard's Madison Square Garden arena tonight to test his punching prowess on a lightweight. His opponent in a featherweight round match will be Phil McGraw of Detroit.

Morgan's opposition in his own division has dwindled rapidly in the last three months. He has defeated Joe Glick, Johnny Dundee, and Carl Duane, all New York contenders, in successive fights.

McGraw, an aggressive, fast-hitting lightweight, is looked upon as the most dangerous foe Morgan has met here since he mounted the throne, but his crown will not be at stake. He will fight the Detroit boxer at catchweights.

The semifinal 10-round bout brings Spug Myers, Idaho lightweight, to this city for his first appearance. He will meet Sid Barabarian, also of Detroit.

Harry Cooper to Defend Title in Los Angeles Open — 130 Are Entered.

By the Associated Press. LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 7.—A wet course greeted the field of 130 players in the opening of medal play in the second annual $10,000 Los Angeles open golf tournament here today. It was welcomed by many of the visiting golfers of national and international fame who pride themselves on their ability to place their long drives and approaches. It has slowed down the greens, which have been pronounced by several of the playing experts as among the best in the country.

Such weather, however, only draws the test of skill to sharper lines. The list of starters reads much like that of the national open, it comprising the largest and most interesting field of golfers ever assembled on a Pacific Coast course.

The pairings for the flight of 18 holes today found George von Elm of Los Angeles, national open champion, with Al Waltrous of Grand Rapids, Mich., runner-up to Bobby Jones in the last British open.

Cooper Paired with Duncan. Harry Cooper, winner of last year's Los Angeles open, and Los Angeles resident, one of the fastest players in the game, who keeps the gallery on the run, was paired with George Duncan, veteran British expert.

Willie Hunter of Santa Monica, former British amateur champion, goes out with Joe Turnesa, New York player, who led the national open for 16 holes in the final 18.

Tommy Armour of Washington, D. C., former British amateur champion, was matched with Larry Nabholz of Cleveland, who took the title from Gene Sarazen in the national open three years ago.

MacDonald Smith of Great Neck, N. Y., one of the great stylists of golf, one time California state champion and star of many international matches, was the companion of Leo Diegel of New York and Los Angeles.

Eighteen holes of play today will be followed by 18 holes tomorrow. These 36 holes determining the low 64, and then who will play the final 36 holes Sunday for the 72 medal hole prizes.

Choynski Tells of His Knockouts Over Maher and Jim Hall

Blow Which Stopped Irishman Would Have Felled Longshoreman, Critic Wrote After Battle.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Kan.—Hoscoe Hall, Des Moines, outpointed Joe Traban, Kansas City (10).

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich.—Tiger Flowers, former middleweight champion, knocked out Ted Jackson, Washington Court House, O. (10).

and he indignantly denied the fight was not on the level. Anyhow, Hall was a remarkably shifty boxer and no slouch as a clown, as his knockout of the tough Frank Slavin proved.

Hall in those days was a handsome, athletic fellow, 5 feet 10 inches tall. In his second fight with Fitzsimmons at New Orleans he gave his fellow-Australian a sweet hiding right up to the moment when he was knocked out by a heavy left on the mouth drove him along. Then he rallied. Four times he landed Choynski away. Then the Californian let go two long swings. The left missed. The right thudded on Peter's ribs.

"Maher led a slow left, and Choynski crossed a lengthy right swing. Maher clinched. He let go at once and wobbled away. He came back with a savage rush and Choynski broke ground. But a series of hard jabs in the face staggered Maher. Several hard ones, then a catlike jab with the left hand, the right whipped over in its path, and Maher went down and out.

"The ending was so sudden that many in the crowd accused Maher of lying down. He did not. Now that finished him was planned by a master of ringcraft, delivered the most outwitting part with mathematical exactness, and was hard enough to have felled a longshoreman."

Maher Never Trained.

MAHER had a unique, free, loose style of hitting. This was due, I believe, to the fact that he never did any punching, which tends to shorten blows. Another peculiarity of the Irishman was that he did not train. Maher was matched to fight Goddard once when I had a training cottage at Atlantic Highlands, N. J., with a punching bag in the rear stable. One day Maher appeared and got permission to use my bag. He hit it pretty five minutes. I invited him to go on the road with me for my morning run. "Oh, what's the use?" he said, "if you're going to lose you lose anyway."

Maher and Goddard fought a terrible fight, as one might expect from two such powerful men. Maher was beaten in seven rounds.

Jim Hall, whom I twice knocked out, was the only lighter credited with a victory over Bob Fitzsimmons before Fitz lost to Jeffries. They fought in Australia, and Fitz always claimed he laid down to Hall. I spoke to Hall about this.

Hall Again Favorite.

OURVILLE promoters offered me a return match on the night before the Kentucky Derby, 1898. He trained for six months, and had the Memphis and Louisville sports so impressed with his condition and confidence that he made him the favorite at 1 to 6. I was in fine condition and resolved to make it snappy.

In the first round Hall nailed me a straight right that made things spin. But that was the only effort he made. He landed. In the third I knocked him so dead it took him seconds an hour to get him to ask, "Where am I?"

What a tragic finish the once-elegant and rugged Hall had! A few years ago he died of tuberculosis.

ON THE CHICAGO MARKET

FRUIT MARKET

Apple Trade Is Dull—Offerings Are Moderate.

CHICAGO, Jan. 7.—Wheat trade shows firmness most of the session today but the market lacked the needed push. Foreign prices substantially higher. Strength in Liverpool was the encouraging business factor.

A bullish statement given by James A. Patton, in which he said he believed wheat would rise, was the only factor.

The Diary of a New

DON'T imagine my mother and Joan's grandmother will want to visit us for very long if the baby acts up the way he did last night—or this morning. He had been good as gold for several days, not waking up once, but at 5 o'clock this morning he started crying and he didn't get through until 11.

I heard several of the neighbors in the apartment slam down their windows, and I said, "We had better pick him up; somebody will call a cop," and Joan said, "Not your life, I am not going to let that baby spoiled," and I said,
"Well, you will probably have his cuddly spoiled. I expect I will have the right every minute while you are disappearing the baby."

I left the office at 4 this afternoon so I could help with dinner and my mother and Joan's grandmother after while.

When the clock struck 5, a little ago, I said, "Time to feed the

THE RHYMING
OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

Oh, there are some who travel far down earth's untrodden ways, who follow fancy's lurid star through all their nights and days, forever glimpsing just ahead new fields and fairer lands, they spurn the common ways they know, for distance seas and sands.
They know earth's secret wonder-lands, its strange and lovely isles and groves, groping on with eager hands, they seek its brightest smiles. And some there are who never go behind the market place; of all this world they know a narrow way, little space. How little kin they seem to all the restless race of man; of needs but few, of wants but small, they are the Hearth-Fire Clan! Yet hungrily the seekers go and have since time begin; such joys are never theirs to know as cheer the Hearth-Fire Clan.

Too True. See where President Coolidge gave a non-partisan breakfast to 11 guests. Better look out, Cal, or they'll be framing a bribery charge on you. Can't be too careful these days.

If you can reach a man's heart through his stomach, maybe his vote can be reached the same way.

One big feature of these breakfasts is the fact that they don't call for any after-breakfast speeches. Our breakfast is what you might call the eat-and-run meal.

LANDIS LIKELY TO DISCREDIT RISBERG-GANDIL SCANDAL TALES

Baseball Commissioner, After Hearing Accusations and Denials, Says He Will Dispose of Case Wednesday.

JAMES IS STAR DEFENSE WITNESS

Former Detroit Pitcher, Pay-Off Man of Series, Tells Why Money Was Given and Who Got Shares.

By J. ROY STOCKTON,
Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.
CHICAGO, Jan. 8.—Kenesaw Mountain Landis, white-haired custodian and guardian of baseball's integrity, has taken under advisement the charges of Arnold "Chick" Gandil and Charles "Swede" Risberg, and the testimony of the Detroit and Chicago players accused by the two Black Sox of buying and selling baseball games and will dispose of the matter Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock.

There is little doubt in the minds of those who sat through the hearing in the baseball commissioner's office, as to what the decision will be. It appears that there can be only one decision. Charges of Sept. 2 and 3, 1917 were "sloughed" to the Chicago team were denied by every other witness.

Members of the Chicago club of 1917, most of them, admitted that the money was given because Detroit defeated Boston in a series which clinched the pennant that year for Chicago.

Risberg and Gandil Contradicted. Detroit pitchers and a catcher admitted receiving parts of the White Sox fund, but they said they had been promised a reward if they would defeat Boston. All denied that there had been any throwing of games.

On one side Commissioner Landis has the testimony of two men who have confessed that they played dishonest baseball. They are outlandish because of their part in the crooked world series of 1919. On the other side the commissioner has the testimony of men who have been respected and honored men of clean reputation, of unchallenged honesty. Unless the charges of Risberg and Gandil constitute a challenge.

There can be only one decision. The commissioner may declare that he does not consider it for the interests of baseball for one team to pool to pay another team for trying especially hard against a third team. It was an unfortunate practice and it will not be done any more. But the charges that the four games were "sloughed" to the White Sox and that two years later a series was given to the Detroit team, as a belated bit of extra compensation for the 1917 favor, have not been substantiated.

Gandil Tells Good Story Well. Chick Gandil, the collector-in-chief of the White Sox fund of 1917, was a more impressive witness when he told his story yesterday, than Risberg had been. Gandil is smarter than Risberg. He is no more courageous, but he knows more about his rights and Commissioner Landis was much more polite than in his bullying cross-examination of Risberg. Gandil had a chip on his shoulder throughout his testimony. His attitude plainly told the commissioner that if he became too fresh, the witness would pick up his cap and coat and go back to New Mexico.

Gandil told substantially the same story as Risberg, except that it was fuller, with more details about the men who contributed to the fund and the incidents leading up to the collection. Gandil said he met Bill James, Detroit pitcher, before the first game of the four-game series, and that James told him that if the Sox went out and hustled they wouldn't have much trouble beating Detroit, as the Tigers were willing to see the Chicago team win.

Gandil said James told him he would "see" some of the pitchers and Gandil told him that if it went
